'72 Campaign Issues: Taxes, Traffic, Housing—and Consolidation

"You run for office looking forward to discussing the Great Issues of Our Time with Princeton voters," groused one of Princeton's eight candidates this week. "But you soon find out that people are more concerned about garbage collection!"

The candidate didn't, of course, mean that Princeton's horizons are limited by the garbage can. Each of the eight candidates has found concern, even anxiety, about taxes, traffic, housing.

But people's immediate problems have become, this year more than in most other years, the concern of the candidate. In both parties, candidates are asking voters "What do YOU think?" rather than ranging a doorbell, expounding a philosophy to whoever opens the door, and saying, "Vote for me."

Election Day is Tuesday, November 7—less than two weeks away. In the Borough, voters will choose two to sit on Borough Council. Because the two incumbents decided not to run, whoever wins the election will be new on Council.

The Democrats are running Robert Powell and Barbara Sigmund. The Republican candidates are John Dismukes and Michael Myers.

In the Township there is an incumbent candidate. He is Republican Dean Chace, running for his second three-year term on Township Committee. Mr. Chace's running mate is John Kuser, who ran for the same job last year and lost.

Democrats running against them are Abbot Low Moffat and William Sutphin.

It hasn't been a very exciting campaign. Voters might be forgiven for wondering whether there is much difference, one candidate from another.

In fact, the sharpest difference of opinion seems to be within the same party. In the Borough, the Republican standard-bearer, Mayor Robert W. Cawley, strongly favors consolidation with the Township. Mr. Dismukes and Mr. Myers are cool.

Commenting this week on the difference in opinion, Mayor Cawley smiled and said, of the candidates, "Their opposition to consolidation hasn't diminished my own enthusiasm for it—nor my enthusiasm for the two candidates!"

The mayor added that he spends "over half my time" on community-wide matters like planning, recreation, sewers or the library, and he thinks it his candidates are elected, they too will come to view the community as one.

Mr. Dismukes says that in his doorbell-ringing, he doesn't bring up the subject. When voters do, the majority are opposed, he reports.

On the Democratic side Mrs. Sigmund reported this week that she is open to the idea of a consolidation study.

"I get some comment on consolidation, but most of it is negative," she reports. "Some Borough residents feel they'd have less clout if they were in a white, upper-middle-class community, and any study should take this into account."

In the Township, both Democrat Moffat and Republicans Kuser and Chace are enthusiastic about consolidation.

"I find a lot of pro-consolidation sentiment among voters," Mr.

Campaign Issues

Moffat says, "People feel as I do: it just makes sense! A voter asked me point-blank how I stood on consolidation and said, 'If you're against it I won't vote for you!' "

"Consolidation is the most important issue," Mr Kuser declares. "I want a study group appointed to find out the ways and means and I want to see it on the 1973 ballot."

"Consolidation is certainly Number Two on people's minds Taxes being Number One," reports Mr Chace. "New comers and students especially They can't understand why we aren't consolidated."

"I'm strongly for it and always have been," he continues "The biggest problem is convincing Borough Council that consolidation is in the best interests of the community and getting them to agree to a study."

Mr Chace accuses the four Borough candidates of dodging the consolidation issue because a pro-consolidation stand might cost them votes.

"Timing is critical," he observes What I'm afraid of is that consolidation may become unfavorable to the Township and then we'll be saying 'Who needs the Borough?'

Potential Evaluated. Both Mrs Sigmund and Mr Kuser across party and municipal lines regard consolidation as a possible solution of a lot of Princeton problems

Mr Moffat is running on the Mr Sutphin says "I don't let people anything Ask what's on their minds and what they want me to do if I'm elected" Their answers

Municipal garbage collection control of speeding on Birch and Terhune and easing of the dangerous Hartley Harrison intersection better collection of brush and leaves, more efficient recycling better garbage collection on Hartley and Oakland street lights on Dodds Lane a traffic light at Snowden and the Kingston Road more recreation facilities in the winter, more coordination of recreation with the schools' free Wednesdays.

Taxes?

"When people mention taxes I point out that New Jersey relies too much on the property tax," Mr Sutphin says, "and I have to admit I can't give much reassurance"

"Taxes are a particular problem in the Harris Road Henry Avenue area" Mr Moffat reports "every household er on Harris Road mentioned taxes to me Rateables — that's silly No big research outfit is going to buy and here it's too expensive, and the businessmen property owners I talk to agree on it

Most Township residents also protest about taxes to "It's not the fault of local governmen Mr Moffat finds

PHS Suspends 35 for Racial Fights

The high school has suspended 35 students, 18 white and 17 black as a result of racial fighting that occurred the week of October 9. Of the 18 white students about half are from West Windsor About one-fourth of the 35 are girls, both black and white

Suspended students met with Principal Patrick Wertheimer Tuesday evening in one of a series of meetings with school administrators It is the hope of school officials that the meetings there have been scheduled can expose the sources of racial tension and help the healing process.

Meanwhile Borough police have brought charges against two more PHS students as a result of the fighting October 9 Chief Michael Carnevale said Juvenile Officer Douglas Watson had established the fact that the students were participants.

This brings to six the number of students charged by Borough police. "I see this as the end of it, as far as the police are concerned," Chief Carnevale said

Dr Wertheimer said this week that there will be no more suspensions because "the ground is too cold" She said the school had suspended all the students that could be identified, admitting that others who were involved could not be pinpointed Students were interviewed individually and the same sentence of suspension meted to each, even though not all were equally involved

The suspensions have been in effect this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday

Survey Made. In late summer, Mr Kuser surveyed 300 voters and 60 of them listed "Taxes" as the Township's number one problem Housing lack of consolidation, drugs, environmental problems, youth were next in line)

"Taxes are indeed Number One, and they're the one we're least able to do anything about" Mr Chace concedes

Robert Powell the Borough Democratic candidate sees some tax hope in forthcoming conversations with the University

He points to handing the University back taken off the tax rolls and reminds that only 2,500 property owners in the Borough are paying all the bills

Now that Princeton voted it's essential to find ways to solve this" he says "The Borough for example could send the University a bill for the cost of police protection that kind of thing It is possible to reach an agreement and I think we can get money from the University A lot of taxpayers receive much of the Borough's land tax exempt And renters know tax increases Look up their rent"

An Eye to the Future. Mr Dismukes who Mr Powell appointed sees business as the "main" future a way of keeping taxes down From a questionnaire sent to all voters last year to 1,100 return from 4,000 he and Mr Myers developed a platform led by support for drug treatment program Communities in general Borough residents more involved Mr Dismukes was chairman of the committee that drafted the new noise ordinance), planned the group front of the central busine district are also in the Republican platform.

Mr. Dismukes wants the business district a place for apartments as well as offices, and with Mr. Myers, he opposes introduction of big department stores or another supermarket.

Traffic and transportation have been uppermost with the Powell Sigmund ticket.

"People say they'd love a mini bus," Mr. Powell reports, "and they want bike paths as an alternative to driving a car. We've heard a lot about speeding—on Murray Place, John Street, Cleveland Lane. People tell us cars zoom by without any regard. I think we need more radar traps. Just enforcing the speed limits we have, would help."

Trucks Invade Privacy. Mr. Powell and Mrs. Sigmund also find that voters don't like trucks on residential streets. "Trucks short-cut the traffic lights by using Murray Place," Mr. Powell explains, "and ETS trucks use Cleveland Lane all the time."

As a woman candidate, Mrs. Sigmund says she gets voter response for proposals to start small, neighborhood Day Care centers, which might be open to all ages in the community besides toddlers. "So many Borough people feel isolated, especially older ones, and a neighborhood center could be a place for them."

"Mothers tell me they like our proposals for more imaginative park equipment, more recreation programs for girls," she continues.

The Democrats' proposals for stricter enforcement of health codes in restaurants and markets, has also brought favorable response, Mr. Sigmund reports. She and Mr. Powell propose replacing the A B C grading system with a demerit system: so many demerits, and a market or restaurant would be closed.

"We also favor publication of the reasons why an establishment has a B or C health rating," she adds.

Housing in Background. In allowance as a Township issue is housing. None of the four candidates can resist comment in detail about public housing because two of the four will be faced as Committeemen, with a decision on the public housing case now being decided by the zoning board.

The multi family housing report won't come from the Regional Planning Board for many months, although all four candidates are restless and wish the board would hurry.

"I favor public housing in principle," Mr. Chace says, "and I favor privately built multiple housing straight, but we need a Master Plan that indicates such housing. There is a great need in Princeton."

Mr. Kuser reports that 72 percent of the voters he asked about apartments favored a combination of privately developed apartments with low and moderate income publicly supported apartments. Only 13 percent in his tally wanted no apartments at all.

He says that, of the 72 percent almost all urged restrictions on the kind of apartments the Township allows.

Controls Essential. Mr. Moffat, on the other side of the ticket, agrees.

"Most of the voters I meet agree on the need for apartments," Mr. Moffat reports. "I find interest in high-income apartments, but there must be rigid controls to fit the needs of the town. And we must, I think, be very attentive to Open Space needs: I would favor a higher density, as providing more Open Space."

Mr. Kuser proposes requiring a developer to cluster his apartments on a site and maintain the rest himself as Open Space, thereby saving the Township the cost of buying Open Space and keeping such land on the tax rolls.

Whether taxes will go down, garbage be collected quietly and often, trucks disappear from Princeton, parking spaces open miraculously and apartments open wide their doors—remains to be seen. Perhaps Election Day will tell.

CONSTRUCTION RESUMES

On Indoor Tennis Center. At its regular monthly meeting last week, the West Windsor Board of Health granted approval for the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center to complete the six court facility on Washington Road.

Construction had been halted until the question of sewage disposal had been resolved. The solution agreed upon was the installation of a holding tank.

Township Health Officer, Herman Lavan, who had previously opposed the holding tank concept, said he is now delighted with the plans drawn up for the Center by Quimby & Rittenhouse Associates.

By the Health Board's action, all obstacles to the completion of the building have been removed. Princeton University Coach John Conroy, who will manage the facility, stated that construction will now resume and the building will be completed as speedily as possible.

Because of the unexpected delays in the past, Mr. Conroy is wary of projecting an opening date, although the builders, Indoor Tennis International have predicted that the Center can be in operation by January.

Mr. Conroy stated that interested tennis players may call the Center's headquarters, 924-0015, or write Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, Washington Road, P. O. Box 2306, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

BOARD PASSES MEASURE

To Move Middle School I: will be the John Witherspoon Middle School starting next September.

The school board passed, 8-0 (Philip Cruickshank absent) the resolution transferring Princeton's middle-aged kids in sixth, seventh and eighth grades from Valley Road and Community Park into John Witherspoon.

Valley Road's future is still in limbo, explained board chairman Robert Bierman at Tuesday night's meeting. The building won't be available for eager community organizations for some time.

Community Park's buildings will revert to use as an elementary school.

Responding to an audience question, Dr. Bierman said there is no plan to put high school classes in the John Witherspoon building.

To Join Athletic Group. Norman Van Arsdalen and Superintendent Philip McPherson explained the decision to enter the new Mercer County (athletic) Conference.

Dr. McPherson told the board he once had reservations about the wisdom of the move. He feared that "formalized rivalries" might lead to disturbances or riots at football or basketball games.

He now feels that joining the Conference makes "practical sense," he told the board, adding in reference to Mr. Van Arsdalen, "Besides, I have faith in Van."

Mr. Van Arsdalen explained that if Princeton didn't join the conference, it would have a difficult time finding teams to play against: "We'd have to scratch for opponents," he said. He pointed out that the school system can always withdraw if that seems wise.

WHO FOR FLOYD?

No Decision Yet. A replacement for Democrat James A. Floyd on Township Committee will "not necessarily" be a Republican, said Republican Mayor John D. Wallace this week.

The mayor repeated his comments of last week about nonpartisanship in seeking a replacement for Mr. Floyd. The Democratic Committeeman will resign November 15 from Township Committee because he is moving to Cleveland to accept a new position with his company.

"Everyone on Committee agrees that the replacement has to be a capable person, and that's the most important thing," the mayor said.

If both Republican candidates win on November 7 and Mayor Wallace names a Republican replacement, Jay Bleiman would be the lone Democrat on the five-man body.

Committee is scheduled to talk about the situation at an executive meeting planned for next Monday, the mayor said.

JUVENILES CHARGED

In Separate Thefts. Borough police have made arrests, following investigations of two separate thefts this month in the Borough.

Two Borough youths, both 16, were arrested Friday by Detective Timothy Huizing and charged with the theft of a bank deposit bag four days earlier from an office in the YMCA building on Avalon Place. The bag had contained approximately $300.

In connection with a series of locker thefts at Princeton High School, police have made formal charges against a 16-year-old PHS student charging him with the thefts.

The charge has been forwarded to Mercer County Juvenile Judge J. Wilson Noden for further action. The larcenies at the high school were investigated by Det. Thomas Michaud and Det. Huizing.

Join City Hall

Borough Hall has several vacancies for citizens who would like to serve as volunteer members of various boards and commissions.

And Township Hall is still looking for a $2,400-a-year magistrate. A couple of lawyers have applied, and about a dozen are under consideration.

The Borough has openings on the Traffic Safety and Police Advisory Committees plus Zoning, Planning and Welfare boards. You must be a Borough resident, 18 years of age or older to apply. Take your name and qualifications to Borough Hall.

It's difficult to find a magistrate. The law won't allow people to serve if anybody in their law firm appears before any municipal body.

ASSAULT CHARGE MADE

Against Woodbridge Resident. J. Paul Molloy, Magic Apartments, signed a complaint summons Sunday against Edward Nash of Woodbridge, charging him with assault.

Township police received a call at 3:07 Sunday morning from Mr. Malloy who reported that he had been punched in the mouth and chest by Mr. Nash. The alledged assault took place, police said, in the Malloy apartment.

Mr. Malloy was taken to the Princeton Medical Center, where he refused treatment. Mr. Nash is scheduled to appear in Township Court on November 1.

TWO ARE FINED

In Township Court. Two Princeton residents were fined last week by Judge Burton Peskin in Township traffic court.

Ann M. Cotter, 37, 14 Murray Place, was fined $30 for leaving the scene of an accident. Judge Peskin suspended a second fine of $15 for careless driving.

Patrick J. Davis, 17, 32 Stetson Way, paid $10 for careless driving.

POSTMASTER NAMED

Basil Ferrara Appointed. Princeton has a new postmaster. He is Basil Ferrara, who started as a clerk-carrier 30 years ago and over the past 18 years has held every supervisory position in the Princeton post office.

Mr. Ferrara, who lives at 5 Fisher Avenue, was educated in Princeton's schools and at Rutgers University. He has received numerous awards from the Post Office Department for Meritorious Service and Superior Accomplishment.

The new postmaster succeeds John Dilworth. His appointment, effective October 14, was made under the non-political merit system established in 1970 under the Postal Reorganization Act.

NASSAU ST. STORE HIT

By Short-Change Artist. A Nassau Street store was "conned" out of an extra ten dollars Monday by a short change artist, according to Chief Michael Carnevale.

The Merchant Alert Plan was activated, he said, to inform other merchants that this type of con man was working the area. The Chief cautioned clerks in stores to be on guard when anyone purchases a small items, throws down a $10 or $20 bill and then starts asking quickly for different amounts of change.

Usually the clerk becomes so confused, commented Chief Carnevale, that the short-changer is able to make off with an additional $10 or $20.

FUNDS, READERS SOUGHT

By Recording for the Blind. If this is the busiest time of year for students at high schools and at universities it is also necessarily the busiest season at Recording For the Blind.

According to Mrs. John Mulligan, chairman of the Princeton Unit of this national organization, "ours is a heavy and continuing responsibility. We have engaged ourselves to supply taped text books free of charge to any blind student who requests them. And it is naturally in the fall when classes begin that the biggest demand occurs."

Through the generosity of the Princeton area two new recording booths were added during the past year, bringing to six the number of tape recorders operating at any one time. Because of the increased demand by blind students throughout the country for more taped textbooks, volunteers are joining the hive as the hum of the reels and spindles constantly winds up the spoken text.

The 317 volunteers readers, markers, monitors, checkers, and duplicators at the Princeton headquarters, 100 Stockton Street, turned out in one year the unprecedented total of 221 taped books, representing over 2,000 tapes.

All of these were duplicated at the studio, one set of tapes being sent promptly and directly to the student who had requested them, and another set to the New York headquarters for its Master Tape Library. The latter now comprises over 20,000 tapes.

In the last year alone more than 1,000 new titles were added to this library, and more than 61,000 recorded books were lent to blind students of all ages across the land. There is no charge for this service because of the annual generous response to the drive for funds.

At the Princeton studio over 70 books are now being "processed" which means marking, assigning, annotating, reading, monitoring, checking, and duplicating.

And because not everyone can read aloud, and with the desired expression, a book on biochemistry, algebra, or an IBM Reference Manual, a treatise on ancient philosophy, mediaeval religious theory, or quantum mechanics, specialists are sought and assigned books on these subjects as the requests for them come in.

At the moment readers are needed for "Introduction to Topology," "Price Theory: A Provisional Test," and "Constitutional Law and Judicial Policy Making." A "Digital Computer Lab Work Book" awaits a proficient reader, while many less specialized general works are now on the shelves waiting for the printed word to be transmuted into the magic of the aural tone.

Some of these are: Basic Writings of Saint Augustine," Autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini," and "Kerygma and Myth: A Theological Debate."

Readers in foreign languages are always being sought, especially those whose native tongue is Spanish, Portuguese, French, or Italian. It is emphasized by Mrs. Thomas Bogia, Studio Director of the Princeton Unit. And, as the services of the 18 units of this non-profit organization become more widely known, the need for funds to produce the tape increases. The current appeal for contributions is aimed at supplying this urgent demand. Contributions should be sent to Mr. H. Huntington Bliss, Recording For the Blind, 100 Stockton Street, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

LAW PANEL CREATED

Two Princeton Lawyers Named. Two attorneys from the town of Princeton—both of them women—have been retained to serve on a panel of advisers created this year to consult with Princeton University students interested in a law career.

The two will act as the "core advisers" on the new pre-law advisory panel, announced today by Dean of the College Neil L. Rudenstine, where they will be joined by Strangely, despite all the record breaking cold of the past week, the leaves have not begun to fall in profusion. Even the earliest recorded October snow did not bring them down — it just concentrated on branches, shrubs and trees.

A bit of Indian Summer did survive, and afternoon temperature readings have forged back to the low 60s. Showers Friday are a possibility, the Man says, but he looks for a fair if somewhat coolish weekend.

OCTOBER SNOW SCENES: The earliest recorded snowfall in Princeton's history greeted residents as they woke last Thursday morning. The wet snow was fine for building a snowman like this one, constructed by Laura Haubrich of 115 Voorhees Avenue, Pennington, but trees most of them still with all their leaves, took a beating. Branches unable to support the added weight came down all over town. (Staff Photos) three others from the faculty and administration with an interest in law who will serve on a volunteer basis.

By bringing diverse talent to the panel, Princeton hopes to advise seniors about law school more fully than in the past, and in general broaden student understanding of the legal field. The panel members include:

Louise Evans Farr, a Vassar and Yale Law School graduate (LL.B. 1951) with a broad legal background in the field of civil rights, who is presently the legislative and political coordinator for the Princeton-based Fund for Peace Education. Mrs. Farr's law experience has been both in the academic area (Yale, University of Denver, Georgetown) and in government, at the state and federal levels.

Barbara R. Lependorf, who has a private law practice in Princeton as well as serving as a pool attorney for the State of New Jersey Public Defender's Office in Trenton. A University of Buffalo Law School graduate, Mrs. Lependorf was an Assistant District Attorney in Erie County, New York before moving to Princeton two years ago.

Thomas H. Wright, Jr., who last spring was named to the newly created post of University Counsel, a position created by President William G. Bowen to deal with University matters of policy and procedure involving legal questions. Formerly Assistant General Counsel of The Ford Foundation, Wright is a graduate of Princeton (1962) and Harvard Law School.

Jameson W. Doig, Professor of Politics and Public Affairs and Associate Dean of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. Also Director of the Woodrow Wilson School's graduate program, Professor Doig, a specialist in urban affairs, has been particularly interested in many of the legal aspects of the problems of the cities.

A Henry Schilling, the graduate admissions director of the Woodrow Wilson School. A 1967 Harvard graduate, who received his Master in Public Affairs degree from the Woodrow Wilson School last year, Schilling is himself currently a law student at Rutgers in Newark.

In announcing the formation of the new panel, Dean Rudenstine noted that for the first time in the University's pre-law adviser program—ratheys with "practical as well as academic and research experience" will be acting as advisers. Pre-law advising in the past had been done by two faculty members on a part-time basis; the new expanded panel should be able to provide inquiring students both with more time and a broader outlook on a legal career.

"There will be five people, each contributing expert knowledge from his or her own law perspective," said Rudenstine. "Out of this, we hope to give students a really good view of the law. In addition, we will be bringing in guest speakers from time to time."

A Pride of Years for Two Princeton Firemen

A half-century of devoted service to the Princeton community — that's the record two sturdy, still-active volunteer firemen who were honored at last week's annual Firemen's Parade. The Borough gave each a lapel pin.

The firemen are George Willis of Princeton Engine Company Number One and Carl C. Schafer Sr. of Hook and Ladder.

"We used to be called out two or three times a day," Mr. Willis recalls, you had coal furnaces, kerosene stoves and lamps, chimney fires, wood fires . . ."

"A lot of field fires in the old days," Mr. Schafer added overall, we don't get as fires we used to have."

"On fire inspections today you find cellars so clean you can not find a single violation," Mr. Willis marvels. "stores, gas stations — they're aware, and this stops a lot of fires."

Half a century ago, when both men became volunteer firemen for Princeton, the pay we couldn't help because the had no squad cars. Today, pay fire handle a lot of smaller fires.

In fact, today," Mr. Schafer explains, the police are at the fire before the firemen are."

FATHER TO SON AND BACK AGAIN: Carl C. Schafer Sr. (left) receives his 50-year wrist watch from Hook and Ladder, presented by his son, Robert Schafer, president of the fire company. A few moments later, Carl Schafer presented to Robert Schafer his pin for 25 years service. Father and son are both associated with the Cooper and Schafer roofing company. Mr. Schafer Sr. lives at 15 Pelham.

Two Chiefs. Both men have been chiefs, in fact, they served only one year apart. Mr. Willis became Fire Chief in 1941 and Mr. Schafer followed in 1942. The office of Chief rotates among the three companies and each Chief holds the position for one year.

The big ones?

The old University Chapel and Dickinson Hall, is the prompt reply from each veteran, as he remembers the really big fires. The double burning occurred in 1922.

"I was right across Nassau at the time," Carl Schafer remembers, all I had to do was go across the street."

Green Science Laboratories, where Firestone Library now . . . that was another one. The building burned in 1929.

"It was stone, but it was gutted, and we were there all night long and the biggest part of the next day," says Mr. Willis.

The old University gymnasium was a wartime casualty, burning in 1941. It started at night, and I remember they came up from Trenton to help us." Mr. Willis recollects.

Hun School Johnny Hun's school" — where the Seminary now has student living quarters, burned spectacularly in the early '40s and so did Tommy O'Kane's old frame place where the Annex and Woolworth's are now," both men remember.

FIREMAN WILLIS: George Willis as he appeared some years ago in his volunteer fireman's uniform. A half-century fireman, Mr. Willis also worked half a century in the University's food services department, retiring from full-time work in 1970. His fire company, Princeton Engine No. One has presented him with a wristwatch for 50 years of service. Mr. Willis lives at 131 Moore.

Cold, Hungry. In spite of spectacular and disastrous fires, both men shrug off the danger. What they do talk about, is the fire in the middle of a cold winter night, and the sleepy headed crawl from a nice warm bed into the dark cold. And the meals missed. And the water soaked, half frozen clothes.

"We practically lived in the firehouse," Mr. Willis explains, we did all the cleaning and carpentry repair and things like that. In the early days, the fire company was more of a club than it is now. Today, you've got television and such to keep men at home more."

Today, fire companies borrow money when they need something," Mr. Schafer adds, we used to save for it. We used to get $24 a year and bought our own uniform. Today, we get $60 a year — and still buy our own uniforms."

"Bombing." Mr. Schafer's recollections of World War II brings a grin to his face. Blackouts! We'd get a call somebody smoking in front of the firehouse, well, that wasn't allowed in the blackout."

And so many alerts, in '42 when I was chief. We'd stage a 'bombing' and we'd say, Well, what houses shall we have on fire today?" and we'd get the first aid squad in to take care of the casualties.

Equipment was different half a century ago. Mr. Willis describes the steam engine pulled by horses or by hand — that's when he was a kid in Princeton. The engine burned cannel coal. It would be ignited at the firehouse and by the time the engine got to the fireplug, there would be enough steam up to give the Saving to Educate your Children?

Are you sure that the money you are saving in the bank will buy as much education 10 years from now as you hope? Don't forget about inflation! Compare your food budget of 10 years ago with today's. Does compound interest make your money grow as fast as inflation erodes its buying power?

Perhaps you should consider real estate investment. Cash in on inflation yourself! Real estate in the Princeton area keeps going up in price even when the stock market goes down.

We have a special investment plan that can generate long-term capital gains so fast that you may reasonably expect your money to double in 3½ years. We cannot guarantee that, to be sure, but we have some mighty impressive evidence that we'd be pleased to show you, at no obligation to you, of course.

required pressure. Then, in the '20's, they got a pumper and did away with the steam engine.

Firemen were different, too. Merchants were volunteer firemen, most of them, and even those that weren't would give a fireman time off with pay to fight a fire.

Today," Mr. Willis says, "a man can't afford to take time off, or he works outside Princeton and can only come to a night fire. We get good turn-outs today for night fires because by that time, the firemen are at home."

. . . In The Family. George Willis' father, John Wilbs, was in Engine Number One before him and so was his late brother William.

Carl Schafer's son Robert, now president of Hook and Ladder, has been Chief, too. His other son, Carl Jr., once mayor of the Township, has never been a fireman. Until recently, membership was restricted to residents of the Borough.

I've followed the fires since I moved to Princeton from Trenton in 1910," Mr. Schafer says with pride, and I've been happy as a fireman ever since: I joined the minute I was old enough. It gets into your blood . . ."

I had to wait a year on the waiting list to be made an active member," Mr. Willis says. I was lucky: some men waited five years. And I still go out on fires and still do my share, thank God!"

SECOND LUNCHEON SET

By YWCA Committee. The YWCA Committee for Racial Justice will hold the second in its series of lunches this fall on Thursday, November 16.

Developmental learning, a method of teaching the disadvantaged, will be the topic discussed by a panel of experts. Speakers will be Charlotte Danielson, team teacher in the fourth grade at Riverside School, Dr. Nancy Devlin, psychologist at Littlebrook and Riverside schools, and Sue Fremon, publicist and former president of the Princeton Board of Education.

All three speakers are adherents of the Piaget educational method, developed by Jean Piaget, philosopher and child psychologist, whose theories are gaining widespread respect among educators.

The date of this luncheon had originally been set for November 2 but the New Jersey State Teachers Convention has been scheduled for this day making it necessary to change. The last luncheon in the series will be held on Friday, December 8.

Speaker will be Harold J. Revolt, Jr., attorney who represented Robinson in Robinson vs. Cahill, the case challenging the constitutionality of the property tax as the basis for public education.

As usual nursery care at a modest fee will be provided for children ages one through five. Reservations for the lunches can be made by writing or stopping by the YWCA. The charge for each luncheon is $1.50.

TREASURE MART SET

At YWCA. The YWCA will hold a Treasure Market Saturday, November 4, to benefit the Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund.

Doors open at 10 a.m. on a cache of treasures — irons, electric mixers, a bicycle, art nouveau jewelry, records, books and more. Lunch is available from 11 to 3. Baked goods on sale is provided by the Friday and the Newcomers' clubs. The Market will be open until 4.

The Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund, established in 1968, honors a late member of the board of directors. It gives assistance on a year-round basis to women and girls who want to participate in YWCA programs, and is used to help children attend the YW's summer day camp or to aid a working parent whose children will benefit by the after-school program.

Donations are still being accepted for the Market. Clothing should be marked for size. A call to the YWCA will arrange for pick-up.

McCarter Theatre Is Poised For Opening Night Excitement

A revitalized McCarter will welcome the Princeton community and the theater community of the eastern seaboard this Thursday at 7:30 for a gala opening night.

"Agamemnon," William Alfred's contemporary, anti-war version of the Greek legend, will launch McCarter's new repertory season. It will play through November 5, to be followed by the Sam Shepard's rock tragedy, "The Tooth of Crime."

William Alfred teaches English at Harvard, but he is best known for his play "Hogan's Goat," which was a major New York success of the 1965 season.

He began work on "Agamemnon" in 1947 after he'd served in the Army and been graduated from Harvard. He says he began it as a translation, but decided to write his own play when a colleague characterized his effort as more adaptation than translation. The first version was completed in 1952 while Mr. Alfred was a member of Archibald MacLeish's playwriting workshop at Harvard.

Premiere. The play that McCarter audiences will see this weekend for the first time, is two-thirds re written from the original draft, Mr. Alfred says. It was worked into shape this summer with the close advice ter's revised repertory the 1970-71 season offered the last repertory series are Dan Seltzer, professor of English at Princeton and chairman of the University's Committee on Theatre, and Louis Criss, artistic director of McCarter, who will direct two of the productions ("The Tooth of Crime" and "The Tempest") as well as oversee the others. McCarter Theatre is owned by Princeton University.

Dr. Seltzer has been stressing the professional quality of the program he and his colleagues have been developing. The company is, of course, composed of professionals. There will be an acting and directing workshops for students in the University's program in creative writing and the theatre. It will be taught by Nicholas Kepros (he will be Argon, in "Agamemnon") who has acted and taught in New York, Boston and other centers.

The on campus theatre program will also have undergraduate courses taught by members of the professional McCarter company, workshops where new scripts can be discussed and a playwright in residence. It is expected that the work of the playwright will have its first production at McCarter.

of Hayhannes Pilikian, the young Armenian who has come from England to direct.

Like the Greeks themselves, Mr. Alfred observes, Mr. Pilikian does not hold myths in awe, and directs the classics with a freshness and verve that has brought him fervent praise from London critics and audiences.

Of the play's anti war stance, Mr. Alfred says it is not WAR, not solely anti Vietnam war. "Agamemnon" was in process during the Korean war but as Mr. Alfred has observed "There has been good reason to work on it again."

His "Agamemnon" deals, he says, with the sources of war in people's motivations, "not the kinds of love, or combinated desires."

"Oklahoma!" Auditions This Weekend

Open auditions for actors, singers and dancers in the 13th annual PJ&B Musical, Rodgers & Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!" are scheduled for this Saturday and Sunday at McCarter Theatre, under the supervision of director Milton Lyon and choreographer Joan Lucas.

The cast of the annual musical normally involves well over 100 individuals of all ages, not only from Princeton but from numerous other communities in the surrounding area. Last year, for example, the cast of the record-breaking production of "Fiddler on the Roof" was drawn from 21 different communities in New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. The cast of the PJ&B musicals is open to anyone, regardless of prior experience.

Auditions for principals, cast and chorus are scheduled for McCarter on Saturday from 9-1 and 2-6, and again on Sunday from 10:30-1:30 and 7-10:30. There will be a single audition for dancers in the Dillon Gymnasium dance room Sunday evening from 8-10. Those interested in trying out (including dancers) are asked to call McCarter at 921-3365 between 1 and 6 daily (Monday-Friday) to reserve a specific audition time.

Guitarist Jean McLaughlin will bring his Mahavishnu Orchestra to the stage of Alexander Hall for two performances on Saturday at 8 and 11 p.m., under the auspices of McCarter Theatre. Although all seats for both shows have been sold-out, standing room is still available at the McCarter box office.

Billy Preston, the sensation of the famous "Concert for Bangla Desh," will come to Alexander Hall for the first time for two shows on Saturday, November 11, at 8 and 11 and tickets are also now on sale at McCarter. The black composer-performer started in show business with Mahalia Jackson, followed through with Ray Charles, and eventually wound up playing with and for the Beatles — the first black musician to record with them, and also to have two solo albums to his credit produced by George Harrison.

Appearing with Preston will be Taj Mahal, the veteran blues-soul-rocker, who is currently earning widespread recognition as the composer of the soundtrack for the new hit film "Sounder," in which he also appears in a featured role.

SOVIET PIANIST COMING

To Play Here Nov. 13. Soviet Pianist Alexander Slobodyanik, regarded as the most brilliant of the new generation of Soviet pianists and protege of Gilels and Richter, will make his Princeton debut on the "Music-at-McCarter" series on Monday, November 13, at 8:30.

First Prize Winner in 1966 at Moscow's famous Tchaikovsky Competition (the same prize won by Van Cliburn in 1958), Slobodyanik will be making his third American tour, including a recital at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall on the "Great Performers" series.

His McCarter Theatre program will feature Schumann's "Etudes Symphoniques," Op. 13; Chopin's "Fantasy in F Minor, Op. 49;" and Stravinsky's "Petrouchka" Suite, as well as works by Liszt and Shostakovich.

"TOYS"

Hellman Play Revived. Lillian Hellman's play "Toys in the Attic" is laid in New Orleans, the playwright's native city and a place to which she returned frequently throughout her life.

Curtain-time is 8:30, and the place is the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road at Route 206. Reservations may be made at 924-6231 or 924-5816 between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

New Director, New Season at Youth Center

Terry Steaple, appointed as new full-time art tic director of the Youth Center's Hansberry Arts Workshop, has his first directorial assignment, "Who's Got His Own" in rehearsal and ready to open this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at the Center.

"Who's Got His Own" will play again Friday and Saturday, November 3 and 4, same time and place.

A June graduate of Princeton University, Mr. Steaple is now in his third year on the Center staff. He plans at least two more full scale drama presentations this year plus a variety of studio offering.

"Who's Got His Own" shows the struggle for unity and strength that a black family goes through after the death of the father," Mr. Steaple explains. "And although the father is dead from the beginning and is never seen on stage, it's the director's job to make his presence felt."

Mr. Steaple regards the play by Ron Milner as important because of the negative things that have been written about the role of the man in the black family.

"The hassles this father put his family through are referred to throughout the play." the director continues, "his image depends on which character sees him. To the son, he was a 'tyrant' — a man who cleaned toilets in a factory and then came home and beat his children. The daughter has turned against black men. Only the mother understands and at the end of the play, reveals the secret of why the father acted as he did."

"There is an awakening at the end — a positive sense of change on the part of everyone in the family."

In the cast are Ralph Austin, Bernadette Yeager, Sharon Bean, John Counts and C. Mark McKethen.

plays — "Watch on the Rhine," "The Little Foxes" and "Another Part of the Forest."

She has received the New York Drama Critics Circle prize for two plays — "Watch on the Rhine" and "Toys in the Attic." Her memoir, "An Unfinished Woman" was published recently.

PLAZA SUITE ON BILL

For Pennington Players. On November 3, 4, 10 and 11 the Pennington Players will present Neil Simon's Plaza Suite on a newly built stage in Heritage Hall at the Presbyterian Church in Pennington. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Ina Wilner is the director, George Kalitsas assistant director, Jack Rees and Sven Kastor co-producers, and Gerald Guarnieri set designer. Other members of the back stage crew are Mrs. Barton Stevens, set decoration; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Metcalfe, stage managers; Bruce Devereux, lighting; and Ted Genser, sound.

The comedy consists of three one-act plays, all taking place in New York's Plaza Hotel, and stars Tom and Billie Durand, Jean Delgado, Miles Thomson, Mary Rees and Don Williams.

A special performance with group rates for senior citizen groups has been scheduled for Thursday, November 2. For information and tickets call 466-9301.

"FANTASTICKS" CAST

Triangle Club Will Produce. Princeton undergraduate Geoff Shlaes has announced the cast for the Princeton Triangle Club Workshops' production of "The Fantasticks," Triangle Club Workshops' production which will be given at the Princeton Inn Theatre. He is directing the show, which will run November 10 through the 11th and again November 16 through the 19th, as part of his senior thesis in the English Department.

Subtitled "a vaudeville, slapstick, serious acting, unusual singing, dancing, romantic musical and a dramatic sword fight as major reasons for the play's appeal. "It is, in the ultimate sense of the word, music hall," he points out.

The play concerns the trials of two young lovers, Matt and Luisa, played by Bill Mulvaney and Marilyn Robin. Phil Raskin, as Bellomy, and Jonathan Rose as Huckleberry play the fathers who are adamantly against the marriage of the young couple.

Around this conflict arises the story, narrated by El Gallo, played by Robert Cohen, who enlists the aid of the old actor, Henry, and his assistant, Mortimer, played by Triangle Club veterans George Guy and Rich Kelley. Rich will be remembered for his portrayal of Suzette, the Weather Girl, in last spring's Triangle show, "Blue Genes," which was written by Raskin.

Curtain time for "The Fantasticks" is 7:30 and 10 on Friday and Saturday, November 10 and 11, and 8 on Thursday through Saturday, November 16, 17 and 18. Sunday matinees are scheduled for November 12 and 19 at 2:30. Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box office for $2.

BENEFIT FILM PLANNED

For Children. November 2. The children's film "Living Free," a sequel to "Born Free," will be shown during the school holiday, Thursday, November 2, at 2:00 at the Garden Theater. The price of admission is $1 for all ages.

Filmed in color on location in Kenya, the movie follows the escapades of Elsa the lioness's three cubs. The appealing creatures are left in the care of Susan Hampshire and Nigel Davenport.

Sponsored by the Princeton chapter of Hadassah, the film will benefit the Hadassah Israel Education Services, a comprehensive network of secondary and community college education in Israel.

Tickets will be available at the box office the day of the performance or can be purchased in advance at Hulit's Shoes or Hinkson's Stationery Store on Nassau Street, at Roberts Shoes in the Princeton Shopping Center, or at Lucar Hardware, Princeton Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction. They may also be purchased by calling Mrs. Philip Carchman, 921-7656, or Mrs. Van Gart, 799-2859.

EVER SEE A 12-YEAR-OLD MOUSE!

Well, that's exactly what we are, 12 years old this week. Remember how we started in only a little teeny walk-down shop at 164 Nassau Street?

Well, you should see us today, we're still a little teeny walk down shop at 164 Nassau Street.

Remember when we started doing drawings of our cute little mouse and using him in ads in the local newspapers? Well, we don't want it to sound like a Horatio Mouse story but our own little mouse now appears on cards, stationery, notepapers, napkins, etc., and they're being sold to lucky folks in thousands of shops all over the country, from Neiman Mouse in Texas to Bloomingmouse in New York.

Visit the cozy little shop where it all began. You'll love us now that we've reached puberty.

DANISH WEEK at Bon Appetit begins this Thursday, introducing a new cheese, offering reminders of the famous old ones and featuring Lisbeth Holmgard of the Danish Cheese Association who will demonstrate the art of setting up attractive cheese trays.

IT'S NEW To Us

TRY A REAL "DANISH"

At Bon Appetit. Genuine Danish pastry, called Wienerbroed, is entirely different from what is known as "Danish" here, according to Carl Andersen of Bon Appetit, the gourmet shop located in Princeton Shopping Center. Danish Week will be observed at Bon Appetit this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"They take more trouble," Mr. Andersen continues. "They spread butter on it each time they roll it out. The pastry is very light and flaky. There's a plain almond pastry stick, another with a center strip of apricot or of raspberry. The pastry is always served warm."

Danish Week at Bon Appetit will feature samples of the pastry for tasters' delight, and an introduction to a new Danish cheese called "Grand Toast." It is a Cream Havarti of the Tilsit. Mr. Andersen informs us, and has a lushly rich texture and full flavor. The special price is $1.59 a pound, regularly $1.79.

Hostesses will be interested in the demonstrations by a Danish girl representing the Denmark Cheese Association. She will show how to arrange cheese attractively for a party buffet, embellishing the tray with different fruits. She will also show you how to go about holding a wine and cheese party.

Danish Cheese. There will be general information on the various Danish cheeses such as munster, a golden, butter like flavored cheese; King Christian, which is tangy with caraway seeds; mild and sweet samsoe; the Danish port salut known as esrom; the weight - watchers' favorite bybo; smooth, creamy fontina, and the exceedingly popular Danish blue cheese. All available at the shop.

Bon Appetit has a very fine line of Danish pumpernickel bread, made in this country, by the way, as well as other Scandinavian-style breads. Beluga caviar has become almost prohibitively expensive, but you will find that Danish caviar is an attractive alternative, and very reasonable in price.

Canapes. There are various Danish pates in tins, to embellish a special party, and Danish mussels offer a great choice in butter, in curry sauce, in tomato sauce or on the half shell or marinated. We noticed Danish mackerel fillets in lemon sauce, as well.

A very beautiful candy, real Danish style marzipan, is a new offering at Bon Appetit. The fruits are a handsome confection of almonds and sugar with a creamy texture.

Bon Appetit has the popular butter cookies by Kjeldsen, as well as vanilla rings and pretzels. Attractively packed in apothecary jars are multi-colored peppermints shaped to the size of a pea.

Danish Week this weekend looks like a browsers' and tasters' delight.

DIOR SHIRTS

At Joseph Amari. Tailored shirts in crinkle cotton, white-on-white, gray chambray, and interesting prints, all with the Christian Dior imprint, are featured by Joseph Amari this week. The shirts have the little touches that count: unusual buttons, curved - edge cuffs and good lines.

Most are designed to be worn outside pants and have small side slits. They're not very expensive, in spite of the name.

Amari, located in Princeton Plaza near Judy's Flower Shop on Nassau Street, is also showing attractive shirts made of men's knit fabrics, many in geometrics. Some have full sleeves. Browsing through the shirts (there are not many blouses this year, although Amari has a few) we noticed a navy and white print Balon with a band neckline, and a typical Russian overblouse with the waist sash.

There are some silky prints among the shirts, most with a banded neckline and full sleeves held by elastic inserted at the wrist. Very simple in design, but quite classic. And of course, Amari has more of the Mr. Dino body shirts in a painter's palate of solid colors. All are preemminently packable. The fabric is an imported Italian nylon knit.

If you're looking at coats this fall, Amari has both pant coats and the regular length versions. More are due in, he told us. Prices range from $38 to $78. There's also a small collection of Mr. Amari's own designs in coats - several heavy, unusual tweeds among them. His prices start at $175. Among the others, well tailored wrap-coats, and pea coats with a center back pleat.

Amari also has some pant suits in heavy fabrics for outdoor living, as well as the lighter weight knits, but there is a great deal of emphasis on dresses. Danlons in long and street lengths for cruise wear, in a white knit top, for instance, with a long skirt of gray green polkadots enclosed in black crosslines. There are India cottons with a subtle line of gold embroidery traced over the print. And some nice dresses with the 1920 knee length.

Amari is showing [illegible] made in France (they came sized in centimeters, and there was much to do in Americanizing them to sizes 6 to 14. Fabrics include glen plaid, plain knits and flannels. All are well made.

Banlon skirts for those heading south are made simple and straight with elasticized waists and a deep slit, and a tie belt. The patterns are strong — flowers against black backgrounds, geometrics. It's a becoming style for most.

Fireside skirts, long plaid jumpers, black brocade, lined taffeta — Joseph Amari has roamed the current offerings, choosing selectively a few in each size. He pays special attention to the fit of clothes and still alter your selection. He will also — if you've changed size — alter items from your current wardrobe.

IT'S BIRTHDAY TIME

At Whole Earth. Last Saturday was The Whole Earth Center's second anniversary, an event that was marked with typical no-fanfare. The shop has grown from a few bags and jars jammed into a tiny first floor room on Nassau Street next to Country Antiques to a spacious and airy store in Princeton Plaza farther up Nassau just beyond Harrison.

Here you find the powdered milk that dietitian Adele Davis (the sage of Los Angeles) insists upon, as well as the organically - grown vegetables, unfertilized eggs, and barrels and barrels of grains, nuts and stone-ground flours.

Right now, Whole Earth is featuring imported Italian pasta, made with durim wheat. The flavor is excellent. The brand is De Cecco, and there are the various choices: spaghetti, twists, linguini, macaroni.

A new line of preserves has been added, made with honey for sweetening. Flavors include boysenberry, blueberry, apricot, pineapple, and others. The shop has a plentiful supply of old - fashioned peanut butter, made with no sugar. When you open it, you find the unhydrogenated oil at the top — just stir it in.

Whole wheat cookies are healthful additions to sack lunches. While Earth's are generous in size and come in nine varieties. A new line of blended herb teas has been added, as well as a new coffee substitute, "Rustaroma." The old standard substitute, Oero, is also available.

New Yogurt. For your hearthside grog, cinnamon sticks, spices. Make your own yogurt with the Whole Earth Center's gadget. ($9.95) The four pyrex dishes make a quart. For starter, use the new "Continental" yogurt, which has a very different taste and a rather thick consistency. The yogurt, marvelously good, comes in a various flavors, packed in 8-oz. containers (55 cents).

Whole Earth has different types of cheese, including some raw milk cheese and a yogurt cheese called Kefir, which is somewhat like sour cream or cream cheese without the calories.

For market list reminders in health foods: Whole Earth has breads, such as enriched, white, oatmeal, whole - grain wheat, raisin and honey. Some are sliced. The unrefined oils: soy bean, sesame, corn, peanut, safflower, olive — have a slight sediment at the bottom, the vitamin E is not destroyed.

There's a new packaged cereal, Back to Nature granola, which is a ready-to-eat cold cereal. The granola mixes include a seven - grain blend with honey. Also, for variety, there is maple granola, and Good Shepherd mix, all with no sugar.

Bulk honey, date sugar for crumb toppings, paperbacks on health foods, pulp-ejecting juicers, and even the last Whole Earth Catalogue — it's all there, at the Whole Earth Center. Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 through Saturdays; Thursday evenings until 8 p.m.

HALLOWEEN AT ZINDER'S: Here's the staff hiding behind a sampling of the hundreds of different masks available for a fabulous Holloween get up. The shop has accessories from wigs to beards to big feet, and ready-made costumes as well. Party favors, too.

A Special Seminar on Alpha Brain Wave Function and E.S.P, . . .

Thursday, Oct. 26 & Friday, Oct. 27

In June, a national magazine, Newsweek, featured a special article on "Probing the Brain."

In this article discussion was focused on one of the most fantastic breakthroughs in modern psychology, a new science dealing with the conscious control of brain waves —the electrochemical activity of the brain. This new science is called Alphagenics, and concerns itself with the Alpha Rhythms of the brain. Noted researchers discussed how any individual can learn to function at lower levels, control their brain waves and revealed some of the phenomenal capabilities of man with self-control of his brain waves.

There are four principal brain wave rhythms, the Beta wave, associated with the outer conscious levels, tensions, anxiety, physical activity, etc, the Alpha wave, associated with inner levels of mental activity tranquility, inspiration, creativity, E.S.P., healing processes, memory learning, daydreaming and other phenomena. Theta-waves, which are related to deeper inner meditation, mental control of pain, and finally, the Delta-waves, which are found in deep sleep or total unconsciousness.

Exploration of this almost unknown continent—the human brain—has been pioneered by a soft-spoken parapsychologist, Jose Silva, of the Institute of Psychoenergology, of Laredo, Texas. This success, dedicated scientist has been training people to function at different levels of brain waves for many years. Twenty-six years ago Silva and his associates began their research in Mind Control to see if it was possible to increase a person's IQ factor . . . Amazingly, Silva discovered that not only could IQ be increased but a person trained in this technique could even learn to control certain areas of the Automatic Systems, heart beat, respiration, body temperature, etc. The implications of this breakthrough with regard to health and disease were staggering. With Mind Control Techniques it was found that in many cases people could banish pain, accelerate healing, eliminate insomnia, migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems.

As research continued, an amazing discovery was made. Volunteer students were found to be surprisingly sensitive to the feelings and emotional attitudes of others. In other words they became more intuitive. In-depth studies revealed that anyone with a normal brain and sufficient training could develop so-called E.S.P. and clairvoyance. Alpha Brain Wave Functioning actually enables anyone to become a superior human being.

Classes Now In 100 Cities

Six years ago the directors of the Institute of Psychoenergology decided they were ready to release their findings to the general public, and offer the M.C. Training Program to everyone interested in developing a better mind.

Over 75,000 graduates — Coast to Coast

Now there is no longer any doubt as to the great value of this astounding method of self improvement.

Techniques have been improved and refined to the point that only a few hours of classroom instruction were all that was required to train a truly effective person.

Learn Specific Techniques

Once you have mastered Alpha Brain Wave Functioning you have better control over anxiety and tension. You can banish insomnia and eliminate pain—unlearn bad habits such as smoking, overeating, drinking, etc., and create good new ones anytime you desire. Your artistic and learning capacity will increase along with your vitality, energy, and self-confidence. You'll be happier and more successful in both the personal and business aspects of your life. What's more, Alpha Brain Wave techniques will make you able to help your loved ones in dramatic and effective ways regardless of their troubles. In short, you'll be a better student, parent, employee, or employer, become a truly effective problem-solver, a more dynamic person—whatever you'd like to be!

Silva Method of Mind Control

Alpha Brain Wave Functioning literally opens the door to the "Promised Land" — the kingdom within. Through simple, easily learned techniques you can have your heart's desires, become the person you want to be.

Results Guaranteed

It sounds almost too good to be true, yet the facts are that with Silva Mind Control "Almost Nothing Is Too Good To Be True." Learn how to use the key that unlocks the door to your unconscious mind and release the abundant wealth, power and possibilities within.

ETS PLANS CENTER

For Minority Education. Educational Testing Service has announced that it will establish a Center for Urban and Minority Education next year. The Center will focus on research and development programs aimed at improving urban and minority education.

William W. Turnbull, ETS president, described the Center's program as one that will "deal with broad issues in learning, measurement and educational opportunities of various ethnic or other minority groups."

He also announced that the Center's activities will be guided by a 10-member advisory committee, including prominent minority educators, which met for the first time last month.

This committee will, in a series of meetings during the coming months, formulate policies and develop an overall program for the Center. Committee members represent different fields of research and diffrent areas of concern for urban and minority education.

While the plans are being developed, a search is underway for an educator with a national reputation and experience in the problems of minority students to be the di

Why Sigmund & Powell?

Barbara Sigmund and Bob Powell are candidates for Princeton Borough Council. They have presented well-considered programs on important concerns: traffic, safety, public health, recreation, and our serious housing problems.

But there is another good reason to give your support to the Sigmund-Powell ticket in November. They are qualified.

Barbara Sigmund, a 1961 graduate of Manhattanville College, received practical experience in government as a White House researcher for President Kennedy. She also helped in the formation of VISTA. Her organizational abilities were demonstrated last spring when she ran an interstate conference on young women.

Mrs. Sigmund teaches American Government and Religion at Stuart Country Day School, and has worked with local projects such as the Princeton Study Center, Princeton Association of Human Rights, and CCD at St. Paul's Church. Her leadership qualities were most recently recognized by Rider College, which named her a Trustee. With this background of community involvement and work with young people, she would bring a valuable perspective to Borough Council.

Bob Powell's qualifications are also strong. He has a Master's Degree in Government from Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School, and in 1968 gained experience in finance with the New York City Budget Bureau. He then returned to Princeton to help organize a public-interest research firm for New Jersey, the Center for Analysis of Public Issues, modeled after Ralph Nader's work.

Research Director at the Center, Mr. Powell has made quite an impact on state and local government. He authored a report on the state Office of Consumer Protection which led to a change in its leadership, and passage of several new consumer laws. Most recently, his report on restaurant sanitation in N. J. led to tougher state and local health policies toward dirty restaurants and supermarkets. He has testified before Congressional committees and the state legislature, and serves as a consultant to the FCC in Washington on regulation of television.

Know-how and experience in government very important qualities for local officials. Keep it in mind when you vote November 7.

rector of the new Center.

One very important function of the Center, according to Mr Turnbull, will be to help ETS and society in general to provide all individuals "with a maximum chance to move in the directions that their interests, values and abilities impel them, free of artificial restraints due to race or sex."

FILM SCHEDULED

By Lamaze Unit. The Story of Eric," a film on childbirth, will be screened at 8:15 p.m. next Friday, November 3, at Stuart Country Day School, sponsored by the Princeton Area chapter of A.S.P.O., the Lamaze method of childbirth.

The 35-minute color film was made during an actual birth by the Lamaze method at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Los Angeles. Ferris Urbanowski, the Lamaze teacher in the film, will be a guest at the film showing.

A panel discussion, moderated by Nancy Hahn, follows. Donation is $1. Further information is available at 921-6513.

FOR McGOVERN

Women Organize, Party Planned. A cocktail party to benefit the Mercer County McGovern-Shriver campaign will be held this Sunday from 4-8 p.m. at 5 Glenview Drive, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Rabinowitz. Mrs. Laura Knebel, political journalist, will speak.

A contribution of $5 is requested. All McGovern-Shriver supporters are welcome.

John Bartl, 38 Jefferson Road, has been appointed head of a Mercer County organization of Women for McGovern-Shriver. She is sales department director of WPST radio.

The Women's group invites women to contribute money toward advertisements pointing up women's issues; volunteering in campaign headquarters and writing letters to newspapers.

ECHOES....

From Firearm Ordinance. "We must regulate firearms, and the vast majority of people in the Township wanted this ordinance," declared Mayor John D. Wallace this week, in the echoes of last week's passage of an ordinance banning the discharge of firearms in the Township.

Committee is fully prepared to face any legal challenge to the measure, the mayor said. Opponents of the ordinance had charged that it illegally superseded state codes.

Public Skating Starts

Public skating sessions at Princeton University's Baker Rink have started with a series of Saturday evening sessions — from 7:30 until 10:30. They will continue throughout the winter season.

Beginning November 25, the full weekend skating schedule will apply. They will include, in addition to the Saturday night hours, a children's session each Saturday morning from 11 until 1 and a Sunday afternoon period for the public from 4:30 until 6:30.

Admission will be 75 cents for faculty and staff of the University and $1.50 for the general public. Children will be admitted to the Saturday morning sessions for $1.

An Advisory Committee to study the hunting question has already been formed, the mayor announced. Such a committee was proposed last week by both sides of the gun question.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Susan Bilher, Ridgeview Circle, one of those who proposed the committee; Joseph Trant, of Flagtown, a member of the Antlers' gun club; David Barrie, 24 Autumn Hill Road; Elmer Greey, Ridgeview Road; Township Police Lt. Young board members have full rights and presents to litter, the mayor explained, except that they cannot vote.

The Board of Health and the public Library's board of trustees have youth members, and the Recreation Commission has had one.

The mayor also appointed Mrs. Judith Nielsen, 387 Mt. Lucas Road, to the Environ-

CITIZENS NAMED

To Planning Group. Nine Borough residents have been named by Mayor Robert W. Crawley to a special housing business district committee first proposed several months ago at the Borough's third Town Meeting."

Members are Mrs. Kathleen Edwards, 25 Green Street; Mrs. Grace Brown, Lytle Street; Robert Williams, 8 Green Street; the Rev. Leon Gipson of Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church; Mrs. Yvonne Townes, Clay Street; Mrs. Susanna Waterman, 16 Hunter Road; Mrs. Penny Judson, 18 Aiken Avenue; Miss Margaret Davis, 14 Nassau and Henry Arnold, 175 Prospect Avenue.

The committee was proposed because residents north of Palmer Square expressed concern at the Town Meeting about the direction in which the central business district (CBD) might grow.

Mayor Cawley, who said he's still looking for a tenth member, told his press conference this week that the group has already met once with the Princeton Regional Planning Board to hear the board's tentative thoughts about the CBD.

At the meeting he said that representatives of the University repeated their announced policy of "rethinking" their building plans.

The planning board's new planner, Raymond May, will help in the continuing discussions, Mayor Cawley said, adding that there may be other public meetings on the future of Princeton's core.

GROWTH UNCHECKED

In W. Windsor, Stutz Asserts. Republican apathy contributes to uncontrolled growth in West Windsor, candidate Alan H. Stutz charges in his bid to hold the lone Democratic seat on the West Windsor Township Committee. "The Republicans talk about slowing development," Mr. Stutz says, "but they have let down the barriers that would check development."

Mr. Stutz says he made his home in West Windsor because of its rural qualities. He charges that Republican leaders do little to keep West Windsor's character. "They have failed to act on an open space plan, a flood plain ordinance, a tree removal law, and a tree planting program." In addition

The current Township administration could slow down the rapid pace of home building Mr. Stutz proposes, by strict enforcement of septic standards and development ordinances or by declaring a temporary moratorium to review the Master Plan. He charges that the Township Committee, which the Republicans dominate 4-1, spends little time working on long range plans.

In reviewing past Republican "inaction," Mr. Stutz cites:

Failure of Township officials to react to the mostly year old planning study done by Herbert Smith Associates.

Failure of West Windsor Mayor Melvin C. Firman to attend Planning Board meetings, although the law requires him to be a member.

Failure of Mr. Stutz' opponent, Warren Wagner, to speak out about Township growth at Planning Board meetings ever since he was appointed to that body last January.

Failure of Republicans to enforce the ordinance against look-alike housing.

Failure of the Township Building Inspector to check State sewage authorization before allowing construction of the Indoor Tennis Courts on Washington Road. (When the State said no sewage effluent could go in the adjacent stream, Township officials responded to threats of a court suit by allowing the trucking of sewage from a holding tank.)

Failure to check topsoil erosion in new developments, resulting in excessive silting of already overburdened streams.

Failure to protect trees, with developers piling dirt within leaf lines and killing off wooded areas on homeowner's new lots.

Failure of Township officials to develop a cluster housing ordinance to guide development on wet and wooded sites. (Mr. Stutz notes that a cluster ordinance developed some five years ago by the Planning Board has been "lost.")

Start Recycling Now.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

About 300 tons of refuse was removed from the Princeton landfill during the past 6 months and recycled by concerned Princeton householders. This is indeed a small step in the right direction. However it is a mere tippy-toe step when we consider that the 2 Princetons contribute about 6,300 tons to this same landfill over an average 6 month period.

The Borough and Township engineers are absolutely right in commenting that we should be doing much better. It becomes increasingly obvious that if we citizens do not change our wasteful ways we will wake up one morning and discover we cannot see over the mountains of trash piled all around us.

Aside from saving trees, (a laudable objective), it is imperative to recycle newspapers because there is simply no place to put them. The same holds true for glass and metals.

A partial solution for the monumental solid waste problem of our affluent society is recycling, with separation of recyclable materials taking place in the individual household. This chore usually falls to the housewife, and as a housewife I can personally say that the task has become so automatic I hardly notice it.

I am not a neat and tidy housewife, but I find that keeping clean bottles and cans is much preferable to piling dirty ones into a smelly garbage can. When we moved into Princeton Township 12 years ago we were the delight of our (privately paid) twice-a-week garbage collector.

Since we have become involved with the recycling program we are now an embarrassment to him, as the only trash we have is junk mail, excess packaging and a few bits of "wet garbage" which our dog can't or won't eat.

A second partial solution to the problem is to attack the source: excessive and unnecessary packaging of the goods we buy for our household use. There is NO EXCUSE for the throw-away bottles and cans from the soft drink and beer industries.

These industries put tremendous pressure on our public officials to maintain the "status quo." In spite of the fact that the disposal of bottles and cans is becoming a major expense to municipal governments all over the country. At this writing, I have on my desk a pamphlet (printed on recycled paper, no less) from the Aluminum Association which states that "aluminum holds the key to recycling because of its high scrap value."

This pamphlet then goes on to say, "the more aluminum in the garbage, the more the garbage is worth." Aluminum is a non-renewable natural resource, and yet the Aluminum Association encourages us to throw it in the garbage! This is the kind of thinking that must be changed.

The Solid Waste Disposal Plan worked out by the Mercer County Improvement Association is a major move in the right direction. The plan includes provisions for recycling and hopes to be operational within a year. In the meantime, there is no escaping the problem of solid waste disposal - it was here yesterday, it is here now, and it will be here tomorrow and the next day and the next.

It is the clear responsibility of every citizen to look to his own household, to buy as little excess packaging as possible, to boycott throw-away beverage cans and bottles, and enthusiastically to join in the Borough and Township recycling programs for the betterment of our communities, our world, and our lives.

Bond Issue Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The first question on the November 7th ballot will be whether or not we want a $650 million transportation bond issue of which only $340 million is earmarked for public transportation. The major part, $310 million, is for highways.

There are strong lobbies campaigning for this bond money as it means much to banks (they lend the money) and to the construction industry. The New Jersey Citizens for Balanced Transportation is expected to spend $200,000 on public relations (news releases etc.) to persuade the voters to authorize the bond issue.

Another pro-bond group, the New Jersey Citizens Highway Committee, includes Duncan C. Thecker, president of a concrete firm of which Senator J. Edward Crabiel (D. Mid-dlesex) is a director. Crabiel is also apparently president of his own road contracting firm, and is therefore strong for highways.

Other members are James F. Finn, a consulting engineer for the N. J. Turnpike, and Richard M. Hale, president of a paving firm (see the "New Brunswick Home News," Oct. 16, 1972). One would certainly expect these men to favor the bond issue.

How will we average citizens, who don't belong to these construction industry committees fair? If the bond issue is passed, we shall pay later for the roads in more ways than one. As usual they will fill up with cars and trucks and soon become obsolete.

Industry will build along them and bring in new people to work and to live — more people than the water, sewage, and garbage systems can tolerate. More ugly shopping centers will appear with huge parking lots.

The acres and acres of roads, roofs, and parking lots are impervious to rain, thus there will be more dirty runoff water into brooks and rivers — more flooding. We may not like what the highways bring.

Even though 1975 cars may have improved exhaust systems, every one cannot afford a new car. The excessive exhaust fumes along new car-attracting highways could be sickening. Already a Department of Agriculture report recommends that apartment buildings not be built near highways because of the carbon monoxide danger.

New Jersey has a crop loss of over $1 million dollars per year due to air pollution, mainly from cars. What does this pollution do to us?

I believe we should vote AGAINST the transportation bond issue, especially as, according to a recent report, we have over $144 million left from the 1968 transportation bond issue (remember that we voted $610 million in 1968?). Perhaps we need a new direction for the construction industry, something for them to do that is more beneficial to society than building highways.

Bond Issue Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On Tuesday, November 7, New Jersey voters will accept or reject a proposed $650 million bond issue for funds to be used for highway construction and for mass transit facilities. The transportation Bond Issue was originally proposed last spring by Governor Cahill.

The authorizing bill went through the state legislature with astonishing speed. It passed without opportunity for input or comment by the public.

Governor Cahill has acted wisely and with courage on many environmental issues, but the New Jersey Chapter of the Sierra Club cannot support his position on this matter. The bond issue's merits are far outweighed by its defects. We oppose it.

$410 million, about 60%, is allocated to highways, the balance, $240 million, goes for mass transit. The 1968 Transportation Bond Issue (TBI) requested $200 million for mass transit. Thus far, $144 million is still unspent. Given this record, we cannot have confidence that this year's $240 million will be used, much less, used widely.

There is no comprehensive state-wide mass transit plan, rail or otherwise, nor funds set aside for such essential planning, but funds abound for highway construction. The Department of Transportation appears to be paying lip service to mass transportation while it continues to pave N.J. by spending money primarily for highways.

Proponents of the TBI argue that funds for mass transit will be supplemented by $480 million in matching federal funds. In 1968, it was claimed that the state would get $125 million to match that year's mass transit money. N.J. actually received only $21 million.

The Administration has claimed that the state's transportation improvement program will come to a halt if the TBI is rejected. This is false. The $144 million left from '68 can be used to obtain federal matching grants, and an extensive mass transit program can be implemented, not just talked about. When this has been done, then more funds as needed should be requested.

New Jersey is the most densely populated state. Why should New Jersey's taxpayers subsidize more concrete, and with it, more problems?

McPherson Answers Charges. To the Editor of Town Topics:

Your weekly edition of October 17 contained a letter to the Editor from a Mrs. A. G. Green, Asst. Chairman for: Parents of Princeton School Children, who stated that: "Superintendent Philip McPherson's statement that: Princeton is a 'community of hate'...", and so on.

I have never stated - verbally or in writing - that Princeton is a "community of hate." Mrs. Green's statement to that effect is false. Whether or not the falsehood was intentional, I am not sure.

I did speak about hatred recently - in response to a comment from an individual in the audience at the Board of Education meeting of October 10, as follows (in an excerpted but otherwise unedited transcript of the tape recording of the meeting).

After a lengthy comment about recent problems at the High School, a gentleman said: "... because the administration is - has to be held accountable for this kind of thing. There is no two other ways about it. They're well paid for it; they are accountable."

Then I said: "I'm sorry that I don't accept responsibility for the hatred that I see in children and adults - including probably many of us in this room - along racial lines. We are going to keep dealing with that; and we are going to keep working at it; but we can't tell you honestly that we have a plan to eradicate it in two years." Shortly thereafter, I said again: "Now we accept responsibility, sir, to do as much as we can in that problem but I do not feel accountable for that depth of hatred that exists in our society."

Misquotation is always a problem. But there is a question of degree. Sometimes a news reporter quotes a somewhat casual remark I make in a way that does not seem to be verbatim, as I remember it. That rarely concerns me.

But when I am misquoted on a serious matter, and on something I was purported to have said about my community, it does concern me. It concerns me further when I begin to think the misquoting may have been intentional. (I might add here that on other occasions, statements like this one by Parents of Princeton Children, which have been filled with other inaccuracies, have also quoted me, citing specific statements, in ways that are clearly - by comparison to the actual written statements - false.) Opinions about me are one thing, but repeated misquotations are another.

Friends and colleagues often urge me to respond publicly to false statements such as these. They argue that even my lack of response might lead some to assume that such statements are true. They urge me to take legal action or to support their class action suit, based on the theory that damage is being done not only to me but to their school system.

I finally decided to write to you to discuss the context in our society for this kind of problem...

As Mrs. Green implies, the exercise of freedom in our society requires limits. And even free press and speech under the Constitution are limited, in the case of libel - which might be popularly defined as anything publicly defamatory, that maliciously or damagingly misrepresents. However, even libel as a limit on free press and speech applies in a somewhat special manner to situations involving public officials. I believe there was a case decided in the 1960s by the Supreme Court that held that to be libelous, falsehood in criticism of a public official must be shown to have been intentional (and intent is sometimes difficult to prove in a court of law). This kind of First Amendment interpretation (which some feel may be altered through "strict construction" decisions in the 1970s) gives wide latitude to your newspaper, to Parents of Princeton School Children, and to others across the land...

I think the existing interpretation of the First Amendment is healthy. It protects the press and the individual from government reprisals in cases where falsehood in criticism might have been unintentional - i.e. it assumes innocence until clear guilt is proven...

Perhaps more important, the current interpretation of free speech and press in our society places a great deal of trust in the people - in this case, to read the papers and judge for themselves whether honesty and truth rests with the governmental official or with the attacking citizens. Personally, I am willing to stand that test...

As I may have implied earlier, I do not intend to respond publicly to all attacks on me - even if they are buttressed by misrepresentations of my own words. But I did feel that the broader issues I have discussed in this letter justified breaking for the first time my self imposed and long standing rule that, as Superintendent, I not write letters to newspapers.

Since I may not write again, let me say that I believe that during the five years and more that I have been a part of this community, the local newspapers have served competently and responsibly as an independent free press, supportive yet constructively critical of the government of the schools (even and especially in times of crisis and important decision).

In fact, my experience, as well as my ideals, causes me to think that perhaps Jefferson was right when he said the people would be better off with newspapers without a government than with a government without newspapers.

Dr. Chesebro's "Litany of Sound Education"

To the Editor, Town Topics:

It was a pleasure to read Dr. Paul Chesebro's "timely changes and timeless values" in last week's TOWN TOPICS ("The Rising Generation.") There is no question that this unusual individual has discovered and distilled for us the litany of sound education. In our community, where we have demonstrated our willingness to pay for and support the highest standard of quality education for our children, we cannot afford to avoid the "timeless values" so clearly delineated by Dr. Chesebro.

As our Princeton Regional School system continues to grapple with controversial educational programs and difficult administrative decisions, it would be enlightening to match these developing programs and policies against the universals sighted by Dr. Chesebro.

His closing paragraph bears repeating: "In this era of fluctuating standards when many adults and adolescents are without guidelines, I believe we should remain true to these time-tested values of hard work, academic achievement, personal integrity and commitment to the community."

Marlboro: Not Quite Up to Pitch but Rewarding

It was "Music from Marlboro" weather last Thursday evening as a pre-season cold-wave, with snow, hit the Princeton area just in time for the first chamber concert of the 1972-73 season. Many who have attended these programs held at 10 McCosh Hall on campus have had to brave the fierce winds, lashing rains and snows that usually seem to coincide with these events.

But once the long flight of stairs up into the auditorium is completed, the efforts of these valiant concert goers are rewarded by some of the most moving and aesthetically satisfying experiences the world of music has to offer. And so it was, on this unseasonally chilly mid-October evening that one looked forward to renewing the chamber music ritual that has delighted so many Princeton audiences.

Expectancy was high for a program which featured the Brahms "Clarinet Quintet in B Minor," Opus 115, and the Dvorak String Quintet in Eb Major," Opus 97. The musicians, representing the Music From Marlboro foundation this time, were Felix Galimir and Ronald Copes, violins, (no stranger to Princeton, having appeared on this series on previous occasions); Nobuko Imai and Kim Kashkashian, violas; Miklos Perenyi, violoncello, and Richard Stolzman, clarinet.

The Brahms "Clarinet Quintet" must be regarded as one of the great artworks in the chamber music medium, albeit leaving something to be desired in the Finale with a pretty ordinary set of Variations. Of course, the cyclical restatement of the first movement motif occurs toward the end of the Finale at just the right time, bringing the work to its successful consummation and realization.

Mr. Stoltzman's playing of the clarinet part was masterful. His tone was robust, yet smooth and delicately soft and tender in the quieter passages.

At times, he produced a timbre that almost approached that of the saxaphone (which is not to be regarded as critical in the derogatory sense, but merely as an observation of the performer's overall ability and individuality of conception.) And his conception was a truly grand one indeed.

In Brahms, the linear quality is always present, even in homophonic textural passages.

MUSIC In Princeton

and the lines must soar. Mr. Soltzman manipulated the most intricate passages with a subtlety of nuances and shadings that were a delight to the ear. He penetrated through the rich texture with ease when he had to, but, he also strove to blend his tone with the other members of the string quartet when his material was of a subsidiary nature.

These brilliant qualities of musicianship were not in such abundance with regard to the other members of the ensemble, however. For one thing, it appeared from this reviewer's vantage point that Mr. Perenyi's violoncello tone was often too voluminous at the expense of the rest of the strings.

Because of this, some fine, regal viola passage work by Miss Imai was lost. When her lines were more exposed, she delivered some masterful solo quality viola sonarities. Her tone is rich, smooth and warm and technically, brilliant. Miss Imai is someone to watch for perhaps future greatness.

Mr. Galimir was a big disappointment. Obviously, his great experience in chamber music practice and performance designates him as the dean of the ensemble and as a guiding spirit and teacher to the younger members of the group in such matters as interpretation, tempi and ensemble itself.

But this night, he played constantly in and out of tune; the worst moments occurring at some of the loud tutti like passages. This coupled to some nasal sonarities emanating from the cello, resulted in some occasional raucous effects which were obviously unintentional but unfortunate.

One of the basic approaches to many of the Marlboro interpretations is an athletic attack of the phrasing and rhythm. It works for Bartok and in first and third movements of many classical and romantic works, but not in every case and certainly not in the Brahms Clarinet Quintet which is primarily lyrical. Part of the performance difficulties with respect to the first and fourth movements of the Brahms may have resulted from too forceful a conception, often adversely affecting the balance of the ensemble sound.

The Dvorak Quintet fared even less well than the Brahms, but partly because it is one of Dvorak's weaker statements. It is a rehashing of other notable achievements by the Czech composer, but to lesser effect, and the redundant Bohemian "Country-Music" that permeates the score seems to outdo all of Dvorak's previous efforts in this nationalistic idiom.

Let us be clear. This work is no "Dumky Trio" or "American Quartet." There the ethnic thematic units are unusually inspired and adequately enriched by a creative developmental process, but the Eb Major Quintet, despite a few touching moments, is overly repetitious, padded and uninspired.

Though the concert itself wasn't up to topdrawer standards one has come to expect from the Marlboro series, it still represented a high level of music-making. Everything is relative in this world. Who would not like to have any of these fine musicians on their music faculty or as members of their community?

—Arno Safran

FIRST CONCERT SUNDAY

In Trinity-All Saints Series. The first concert in this year's Trinity-All Saints series will be given by the newly-formed chamber orchestra, The Collegium Musicum of Princeton, this coming Sunday, in Trinity Church, under the leadership of Joseph Kovacs. The program starts at 8 p.m., and will include music by Bach, Handel, Hindemith and Bartok.

The Collegium Musicum has grown from the informal gatherings of musicians which Dr. Lee H. Bristol used to hold at his home during his time as President of Westminster Choir College. Students invited to these gatherings would have the opportunity to hear chamber music played by local musicians and to sing in small vocal and choral works with chamber orchestral accompaniment.

After Dr. Bristol's retirement from the Westminster presidency the instrumentalists who had played on these unique occasions remained in contact with each other within the framework of the Princeton Community Orchestra.

From this association there has now grown a fully-fledged chamber orchestra but one whose members already have many years of experience in playing together. In view of the group's origin, the Collegium is particularly honored and happy to welcome Dr.

McCarter Fails as Setting for Harpsichordist

Gustav Leonhardt, the Netherlands' harpsichordist par excellence, returned to Princeton to open the Series II season Monday night in a concert of Baroque keyboard music. His program included Toccatas and Fantasias by Frescobaldi, Suites by Louis Couperin and J.S. Bach and short works in homage to some of the leading masters of the time by the Baroque French gampa virtuoso, Forqueray.

Mr. Leonhardt is not given to flare or romance in his approach to his art. He sometimes gives the appearance that he is all business as he attacks the keys with precision and perfection; but this is only an appearance. One must close one's eyes and listen to the subtleties of baroque ornaments, mordents, embellishments and turns manipulated in a masterfully-creative yet authentic style that helps to recreate a very precious and special kind of musical artform, the Baroque keyboard medium of expression.

Mr. Leonhardt has an uncanny sense of rhythmic and metrical discipline. Within the strict pulse-like structure of a Couperin or Bach suite, he somehow manages to maintain both the contrapuntal shape (in the Bach), and the melodic character (in the Couperin) while accenting specific points in the linear structure bringing about offbeat rhythms and ritards that are built into the music.

There is an inner strength to his playing that suggests a strong conviction about how the music is to be performed. Mr. Leonhardt has researched extensively into the artform of Baroque keyboard music and his playing reflects this authenticity by its directness and clarity.

And yet, the concert somehow failed to exhilarate this listener. This was more than likely due, not so much to Mr. Leonhardt's approach to his art as to the setting in which the art was realized — McCarter Theatre. This spacious hall with its many peculiar dead spots is no place to present a concert of harpsichord music, especially music representing a period of about 50 to 75 years. For one thing, the instrument's sonorities simply do not carry, and for another, most concert goers attending a series of this kind probably expect greater variety in their programming.

The proper setting for such a concert program as presented by Mr. Leonhardt this evening would of course be Princeton University's 10 McCosh Hall or possibly Alexander Hall. It would have been especially rewarding if Mr. Leonhardt could have performed at Alexander in dual capacity as both organist and harpsichordist, since he is acclaimed on the European continent as a fine organist as well. This might be something to think about for the future.

Music In Princeton

Lee Bristol as soloist in the last of its concerts to be given in the current series.

Mr. Kovacs, is a graduate of the Royal Franez Liszt School of Music in Budapest and a winner of the international Hubay competition in Budapest.

Once in the United States, he became concertmaster of both the Princeton and the Trenton Symphony Orchestras. He is now a faculty member at Douglass College and at Westminster Choir College as well as conductor of the Princeton Community Orchestra and director of the Collegium Musicum.

Mr Kovacs will open Sunday's program with Mrs. Joan Thompson, 'cello, and James H. Litton, organ, in a performance of J. S. Bach's Sonata in G Major for Violin and Continuo. This will be followed by Handel's Concerto Grosso in D Minor and Bach's Concerto in C Minor for Violin and Oboe, in which Mrs. Martha Helms will join Mr. Kovacs as soloist.

Mrs. Helms, who performs widely throughout New Jersey, is currently a member not only of three orchestras, the Trenton Symphony, the Princeton Community Orchestra, and the Delaware Valley Philharmonic, but also of the Trenton State College Woodwind Quintet.

The concert will close with Five Pieces, Opus 44 by Paul Hindemith, and Rumanian Folk Dances, by Bela Bartok.

A production of T S Eliot's Murder in the Cathedral and a program of medieval instrumental music under the direction of Jennifer Lehmann are among the other events planned for the season.

Choral concerts will be given this year not only by the choirs of the two participating Episcopal churches but also by the recently formed Trinity Choral Society, the Columbus Boy Choir, and by the world-famous choir of Magdalen College, Oxford.

No admission will be charged for any of the concerts in the series, though there will be opportunity for the audience to give contributions toward expenses.

STUDENT TO PERFORM
In Seminary Concert. Bass-baritone James E. Pohlhammer, a second year student in the Master of Divinity program at Princeton Seminary, will be heard in a program of religious music from the Renaissance period through the 20th Century in Miller Chapel, Princeton Theological Seminary, on Monday at 8:30.

Ms. Helen Carrell, organist and choir director for the Covenant Presbyterian Church, Cinnaminson, New Jersey, will be his accompanist, assisted by William Skudlarek, cellist.

MISS AMELING TO SING
At Choir College Concert. Elly Ameling, the renowned Dutch soprano, will appear at Westminster Choir College this Monday at 8 p.m. The recital, which is open to the public without charge, will be held in The Westminster Playhouse. Because seating is limited, passes will be required and may be obtained by calling the Choir College, 921-7100.

Miss Ameling, who is on a U.S. tour, will perform songs from the "Morike Lieder" by Hugo Wolf, and one section each of songs by Mozart, Ernest Chausson, Faure, and Erik Satie.

Miss Ameling was born in Rotterdam, and grew up there. She attended singing classes in the Hague and went on to study under Jacoba and Sem Dresden. To her later study with Pierre Bernac, the great French recitalist and teacher, she owes her extraordinary command of the French repertorie.

A first prize at the Concours International de Musique in Geneva launched her career and, after ten years, more than sixty recordings, and an endless series of triumphs during tours of Europe, North America, and Japan, she is recognized as one of the supreme vocalists of her generation.

Why I Plan To Vote

REPUBLICAN

By Betty Mc Clelland

Mrs. McClelland, Pheasant Hill Road, is a volunteer in community organizations, mother of three boys and wife of a Princeton dentist.

Take a drive along Pretty Brook Road someday and see the joggers, the bikers, the hikers and the kids, black and white, from 5 to 75, who are fishing, wading and just enjoying Stony Brook.

Then repeat this scene in other parts of Princeton, at Carnegie Lake, Harry's Brook and at all the parks. It is what I cherish most about this town and what we, as citizens, must work hardest to protect.

John Kuser and Dean Claire will get my vote this fall because I know that they are equally concerned. John has been Trustee of the Stony Brook Mill Pond Watershed Association, which is involved with water pollution control and environmental studies. These studies are concerned with the impact of commercial development on the environment.

He also has been a strong advocate of bicycle paths, which are much needed to insure the safety of our ever growing number of cyclists.

Dean deserves our hearty thanks for the long hour and patient negotiations which he undertook as a member of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. He was insistent upon the need for an impact study to see that a new sewer project would not destroy our environment.

In fact, all of his responsibilities and concern on the Township Committee are directly related to his desire to maintain the beauty and wholesome surrounding of our town. Among the areas he has been primarily involved with are Conservation, Civil Rights, Sewer, Recreation, Engineering and Public Works.

There is one other major reason why I intend to vote for John Kuser and Dean Claire. They both listen sympathetically and with an open mind to everyone. John has during his campaign walked and cycled every Township neighborhood listening to all those he met. Dean also is known throughout the community as a man who will always find the time to listen to your point of view.

Environmental issue, dedication, concern for the opinions of everyone and a large amount of old fashioned thrift are why John Kuser and Dean Claire are the candidates of choice in this year's Township election.

DEMOCRATIC

By James A. Floyd

James A. Floyd, 61 Harris Rd. has been a resident of the Princeton community for 27 years. He was first to Township Committee in 1968 and re-elected 3 years later. In 1971 he served as the first Democratic mayor of Princeton Township.

I plan to vote for Abbot Lea Moffat and William T. Sutphin for Township Committee on November 7 for a number of reasons, not least of which is the fact that I know them both well, and over the years have come to be increasingly impressed by their sincere concern about the problems confronting our community by their demonstrated commitment to the concept of public service and by their basic humaneness and sense of civic responsibility.

On the most elementary level, then, you might say that they are pretty good neighbors.

But they are more than that. In my opinion Abbot and Bill are also decidedly the two candidates with the superior qualifications to do the job that needs to be done.

As a member of the executive board of the local Democratic organization I was somewhat involved in the candidate selection process this past spring, and hence I know some of the considerations that went into the choice of the Moffat-Sutphin ticket for the Township Committee race.

First and foremost among these considerations was a growing recognition that the key issue facing local government and voters in the election year but also in the years to immediately ahead is the issue of planning for rational growth. As recent events have shown, the pressure generated by the greater Metropolitan population are mounting on every side and are too real and too immediate to be simply deflected or ignored.

It was not hard to surprising that the Democratic Party chose as our candidates for Township Committee two citizens who by virtue of their special skills and broad community planning are uniquely qualified to help Princeton grow rationally.

I have had the pleasure of serving with both Abbot and Bill on the Princeton Township Planning Board. Thus I have been in a position to witness first hand the kind of innovative thorough work these men are capable of. To cite one example, Abbot just recently initiated, pressed for and secured important changes in the township zoning law making it possible under certain conditions for owner occupants of single family homes to rent rooms and flats. A sensible step toward helping to alleviate local housing and property tax pressure.

In a similar vein, Bill as a member of the Regional Planning Board helped draft the Environmental Design Review Ordinance, another constructive step toward the rational control of growth.

Both Abbot and Bill of course have many other impressive qualifications for the job of Township Committeemen - qualifications too numerous to recount in any detail here. In my view, however, their planning experience alone gives them a clear edge over the other candidates and strongly recommends their election.

In closing I should like to add that, as many of you already know, I shall soon be moving away from Princeton to take a position with my company's office in Cleveland. Naturally I undertake this move with mixed emotions. I have thoroughly enjoyed my tenure both as Committeeman and as Mayor of Princeton Township and I trust I have made some worthwhile and lasting contributions.

I would like to feel that I am leaving the conduct of Princeton's municipal affairs in good hands. The election of Abbot Lea Moffat and William T. Sutphin to Township Committee on November 7 would go a long way toward fulfilling that fond hope.

REPUBLICANS PLAN ELECTION WORKSHOP: Borough, Township and County GOP candidates have been invited to an election workshop sponsored by the Women's Republican Club of Princeton Saturday morning at Borough Hall Lounge, John Kuser, left, and Dean Chace, candidates for Township Committee, discuss the program with Mrs. Leroy Purvis, vice-president and Mrs. Thomas Poole, chairman of volunteers for the Women's Republican Club.

THREE ARE FINED

In Criminal Court. Three persons were fined last week by Borough Judge Theodore T Tams Jr., in criminal court.

James C. Attenborough, 799 Princeton-Kingston Road, was fined $25 for possession of under 25 grams of marijuana. He was arrested last month by Det. Timothy Huizing at the rear of the Student Center on the Princeton University campus.

Lester Jackson of Trenton paid $20 as a minor in possession of alcohol. Also fined $20 was Michael D. Henley of New Brunswick, who was charged by Proctor William Billups with breaking into a food vending machine in the Woodrow Wilson School cafeteria.

Robert Kelly of Trenton was held for action by a grand jury. He has been charged by Det. Anthony Ranfone with entering a Wiggins Street second floor apartment with intent to steal.

Marlon F. Stokes of 12 Bank Street was sentenced to six months probation with the Mercer County Probation Department. One charge, attempting to distribute a counterfeit controlled dangerous substance (hashish) in the Princeton Cemetery, was dismissed. A second charge of possession of a switchblade knife was later changed to failure to give a good account of himself. Judge Tams waived any fine.

Assault charges against Percy Benson, 150 Witherspoon Street, and Howard Capewell, 33 Knowles Street, Pennington, were dismissed after the complainants failed to appear.

FOUR ON AGENDA

For Borough Zoners. The Borough Zoning Board will hear four applications at its monthly meeting Thursday evening at 8 in Borough Hall.

The New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., is seeking a conditional use authorization for an addition it plans to add to its utility building at 239 Nassau Street. It has received favorable site plan review from the Planning Board.

The proposed addition meets all zoning requirements but because the building is a conditional use, the company needs authorization to expand from the Planning Board.

Mary O'Brien and Philip Peterson of Pennsylvania, who are presently operating a kilt and fine art shop at 203 Nassau, are seeking reversal of an order from the Borough zoning officer that they cease operation of their retail business.

Zoning officer Donald Herney based his ruling on a section of the zoning ordinance which states that when a non-conforming business has ceased operation for a period of a year or longer, any new operation must revert to a conforming use. The building is located in a residential office zone. This section of the ordinance, however, which stipulates the return to a conforming use after a cessation of a year, is currently being challenged in the courts in a Borough case involving the OK Bar on Lytle Street. State laws provide for a longer period of cessation before a non-conforming use must revert to a conforming use.

SOCIETY PLANS LECTURES

On Birth of Country. The Historical Society of Princeton will present an annual series of lectures through 1976, the year of this nation's bicentennial observance. Each series will focus on a general theme in such a manner that the four-year program will offer a many faceted view of the birth of our country.

The goal of this project, Countdown '76, is to foster a better appreciation among the society membership and in the Princeton community for the life of early Americans and the principals for which they fought.

In the inaugural year of the program, the theme will be centered around the men who shaped the thought and fabric of the young Republic. Appropriately, the initial lecture will be on George Washington on Wednesday, November 1 at 8 p.m. in the Engineering Quadrangle Lounge on Olden Street.

The well known art historian E. P. Richardson will give an illustrated talk on "What did Washington Look Like?" Mr. Richardson was editor of the Art Quarterly from 1958 to 1968, and is a Director of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

He is presently a member of the Council of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, National Portrait Gallery, the Archives of American Art and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art.

Members of the public are invited to attend at no charge. Parking ... available across the street from the Engineering Quadrangle.

PHS DRIVE EXTENDED

For Magazine Subscriptions. Magazine subscriptions totaling $1971.66 have been taken by PHS students at the end of the first week of the Scholarship Fund drive. Mrs. Melvin A. Schulman, PTA magazine drive chairman, has announced.

At the same time, Mrs. Schulman announced that the drive, jointly sponsored by the Princeton High School Student Council and the PTA, has been extended to this Monday.

Top salesperson on the opening day of the drive was Pam Bersten, who sold more than $160 of magazine subscriptions. Sally Goldfarb was in second place and William Moon third.

The drive is the chief fund raising project of the PTA. Proceeds will be turned over to the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation which last year administered $8,090 in scholarships to 28 PHS graduates.

Any person in the community not reached by a student canvasser may subscribe to or renew magazines by calling Mrs. Schulman at 924-7236.

Halloween Parade Monday

The annual Halloween program sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department will be held on Monday ... night.

Children in costume will assemble at 5:15 in the parking lot next to the Palmer Library. At 6 today the Princeton Community Band leads the parade up Witherspoon Street, down Nassau to Moore and the Princeton High School auditorium.

In the high school there will be games and awards for the prettiest, funniest and most original costumes in each age bracket.

Some 15 minutes later the program concludes. Goblin will tear open bags of candy to names pulled from a Goblin box. If the child's name when the Goblin calls is present he receives a prize.

DONATIONS SOUGHT

For Chapin Sale. Donations of new and used items suitable for a White Elephant Sale are being accepted next Monday to Mrs. Virgin Worm for the Chapin School Country Store scheduled for Saturday, November 11 at the school.

Antique pieces, frames, bric-a-brac, paintings, furniture and appliances ... enough to carry, clothing ... new or used and in good condition and remnants of material and yarn are among the items that can be donated.

All donations are tax deductible, and the proceeds of the sale will be added to the Chapin School Building Fund. Contact Mrs. Worm at 452-2162 for further information.

Right here in New Jersey, we average 1,012 calls a year for every man, woman and child. More than any other state in the nation. More than any nation in the world.

We think we've done a pretty good job of meeting these ever-getting demands.

But we know that being good isn't good enough.

We must continue improving the kind of service we've got now to meet tomorrow's demands.

To do that we'll be spending over a million dollars every working day this year on new and expanded facilities. That's a lot of money. But not as much as we'll have to spend in the years to come.

We see the need to put another $2.5 billion into construction in the next five years alone. In effect keeping ahead of your growing service demands by building another New Jersey Bell inside and alongside the present one. To do this we must earn what's in order to justify the investment of such massive amounts of new capital.

Good service, good earnings—they're closely related. In the long run, you can't have one without the other.

We've ... high standard for telephone service in New Jersey. We're doing our best to live up to it.

Tigers Must Beat Penn Saturday to Stave Off Disastrous Season

Thoroughly outclassed last week by an ordinary Colgate team, Princeton's puzzling Tigers will travel to Philadelphia Saturday to see if they are capable of keeping Pennsylvania lodged in the Ivy League cellar. If they cannot they will land there themselves.

A week ago the Orange and Black was content with the knowledge that it had lost only one of three games, all of which even its faithful backers had expected would go against it. Then the buoyancy provided by such an achievement was fully deflated by an opportunistic Colgate eleven, which ripped to shreds any last belief that Princeton can play good defensive football.

In back to back games, the Tigers have yielded 70 points and 922 yards which is something better than half a mile. Not only has the secondary been consistently chopped up by passes but the once respected line has been thoroughly unable to cope with the Dartmouth and Colgate versions of the triple option.

Because the defense gave up 35 points to Colgate the 26 which the struggling Princeton offense managed to score in creditable fashion were of no avail. After dominating the Rutgers and Columbia games the defense came unglued in its next two outings and the only conclusion can be that the slippery field in the 7-0 and 9-0 decisions was of major assistance. On a dry field, the Tigers have a sieve-like defense and at Philadelphia they are playing on Astro Turf.

14 RECEPTIONS — AND A CRAMP. Split end Kerry Brown tied a 32-year old Princeton record Saturday when he caught 14 passes — then had to sit out the rest of the game with a cramp. Tigers lost to Colgate, 35-26, despite his efforts.

Penn Inconsistent, Too. The 48-20 upset at the hands of Brown (for the Bruins' only triumph in their last 14 games) testifies to the unpredictable qualities of Penn's Varsity eleven. To their credit, the Quakers lost a good Cornell eleven double-wing 20-16 before losing 24-20, and they hold non-league victories over Lafayette (35-12) and Lehigh (30-27). In the latter contest they trailed 13-0 but won when a couple of sophomore backs matured rapidly under fire.

Despite its last place position, the Red and Blue has been improving slowly to virtually the only sport in SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you

What were the five greatest football games ever played? . . . A sports service recently took a survey to find out — in the opinion of experts from coast-to-coast . . . And here are the five games they picked:

1. Notre Dame 35, Army 13 in 1913 . . . This game was picked because of its historical importance . . . This one game, more than any other, proved the value of the forward pass in football.

2. Illinois 39, Michigan 14, 1924 . . . The game when Red Grange made runs of 95, 66, 55 and 40 yards each for 4 touchdowns in the 1st quarter . . . This is voted the greatest individual performance of all-time.

3. 1925 Rose Bowl . . . The classic meeting of football's most famous backfield (Notre Dame's Four Horsemen) and the man some call the greatest single back in history (Stanford's Ernie Nevers).

4. 1940 National League title game (Bears 73, Redskins 0) . . . This game was picked because it helped establish the modern T-formation; and because many say the Bears — that day — were the most perfect football team ever seen on a field.

5. 1958 NFL title game (Colts 23, Giants 17 in overtime) . . . The experts said this was the most exciting big game ever played.

You probably have some favorite games yourself that you'd rank among the five greatest of alltime, but these are the ones the experts picked, and we thought you'd enjoy reading it.

I knew a person earning $25,000 who came down with a chronic illness, began using up all his savings and then started hoping to die — just to save something for his family. Our new $100,000 catastrophe major medical would have helped.

249 yards and two touchdowns Saturday. A primary target is 6-4 split end Don Clune, All-Ivy as a sophomore and the national leader in yards gained per reception with 22.3.

The top running backs are senior Bob Hoffman, a durable fullback who averages better than five yards a carry, and sophomore Adolph Beillezeare, who covers 100 yards in 9.6 seconds. The team's leading ground gainer, he ran for 214 yards against Lehigh to break a Penn single game record that had stood for 2? years.

Victories for the Quakers over Princeton have been few in the past two decades (they have won only twice since 1952), and any desultory play by the Tigers Saturday will find them outclassed by an eager opponent. If the defense does not return to a measure of respectability in the next ten days against the likes of Penn and Brown, it will be Katy-Bar-the Door when Harvard, Yale and Cornell arrive on the scene.

MISTAKES ABOUNDED

Tigers Show No Progress. A young, rebuilding team can be expected to show improvement from one week to the next particularly when the calibre of the opposition tapers off, but Princeton last Saturday continued to plague itself with one gross error after another. Among the mistakes:

- Six more turnovers on two interceptions and four lost fumbles. With a dry ball on a dry field, tailback Ramerio Perkins fumbled four times, Colgate recovering three.
- Eighty-one yards lost in penalties, and nearly twice that much lost in yardage erased by the infractions. Rubbed out by clipping was the game's most spectacular play, a dazzling 75-yard reverse on a punt return by Barry Richardson. The clip set the Tigers back from the Colgate 16 to their own 9 at a time when they were still very much in the ball game.
- Faulty execution. On one occasion, tight end Bill Cronin and flanker Bill Skinner ran into each other on a pass pattern before the ball was thrown. On another, the Tigers had only ten men on the field for a Colgate point after touchdown.

After a scoreless first period, the action erupted, but the pace was more than Princeton could take, and it was always playing catch-up ball. Colgate scored first—the direct result of a Princeton fumble and the Tigers countered with a 23 yard field goal by Johnny Bartges.

The visitors added a second TD as time began to run out in the half but Princeton staged its best offensive display of the season to cover 76 yards in just under two minutes, Dalzell hitting Kerry Brown in the end zone with one second left on the clock.

From 14-10, however, Colgate broke steadily away. It was 28-10 by the end of the third period, the game hinging in great degree on a fourth and one situation which saw the Tigers fail when they sent reserve tailback Judson Wagenseller around right end and Colgate threw him for a yard loss. The decision to go for the yardage was sound enough but the play used had neither power nor deception, and the Tigers just aren't that fast.

As they had at Hanover, the losers produced two last-quarter touchdowns that failed to alter the outcome. A Colgate TD on which the receiver got beyond the Princeton secondary provided more than adequate insurance.

Two records were set in the losing effort and one was tied. Starting his first game, and told that scouting reports showed Colgate laying off the short receivers, Dalzell threw 31 passes, completing 26. The late Dave Allerdice completed 24 against Penn in November, 1930, while Scott MacBean set the mark for attempts with 38 against Colgate three years ago.

Kerry Brown's 14 receptions tied the one-game record held by Bob Peters, which was also set in that battle against Penn 32 years ago. The Tigers were beaten that day, too (46 to 28), and while records are enjoyable, they have less meaning if they are set to some degree because the other guys are winning.

PDS LOSES SECOND

St. Bernard's Next. Better times should be in store for the Princeton Day football team this Friday when it meets St Bernard's at home beginning at 3 p.m. The visitors should be considerably weaker than the tough Wardlaw eleven that scored a 32-6 triumph over the Panthers last Friday.

The Blue and White has fond memories of Bernard's, as the first team ever defeated in varsity competition by PDS when it began in 1967. The Panthers won the next year also, but the two have not met since 1968, because St. Bernard's felt the competition was too stiff.

St. Bernard's has beaten Croydon Hall this year, like everyone else, but has not had much success otherwise. PDS is now 3-2 on the season.

Not much more could have gone wrong for the Panthers last Friday, as they gave the victors the ball four times on turnovers, resulting in four Wardlaw scores. On top of that, first string quarterback Dave Wagensel was injured in the second period and did not play after that.

His loss stalled out the Panther offense totally. Backup quarterback Bill Baggitt, a freshman, seeing his first varsity action, understandably had his problems, but at least the experience will help. Wagensel's chances for starting this Friday are uncertain.

PDS opened the ball game as if it intended to blow Wardlaw off the field. The first drive after the kickoff carried down to the 14, and only halted by a fumble by fullback Bill Martin.

Wardlaw was held on downs, however, and the Panthers were off again. This time a Wagensel to Frank Konstantynowicz pass carried 29 yards to the nine-yard line. A couple of plays later Martin took the ball over from the four. For the two-point conversion, it was Martin straight up the middle giving PDS an 8-0 lead.

Both teams went nowhere on their next series, which carried over into the second quarter. With about five minutes left in the half, Wardlaw appeared to be stymied again. However on a third and long yardage from the PDS 35, a screen pass to the right side found no PDS player anywhere near the ball carrier who dashed down the sidelines

WHAT HAVE WE DONE FOR YOU LATELY?

DEAN CHACE AND JOHN KUSER ASK YOU TO CHECK THE 1972 RECORD OF THE REPUBLICAN-LED PRINCETON TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE

With several weeks in 1972 still to go, Township Committee with a Republican Mayor and majority has accomplished a great deal in your behalf. Here are some of the highlights from the record:

Established a centralized community-wide drug program.

Initiated an environmental impact study as a basic guide for the plans of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

Adopted a liberalized zoning ordinance to allow residents to convert their homes to multiple-family use.

Began a municipal program for recycling of waste materials.

Approved the plans proposed by Princeton Community Housing.

Enacted a no-gunning ordinance.

This is a record of responsive and responsible local government in which Republicans played a leading role . . . the kind of government Dean and John pledge to continue.

Dean Chace is presently a member of Township Committee and your Deputy Mayor. There are few persons in Princeton who can match his governmental experience. John Kuser has been deeply involved in our community for many years, notably as a leader of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association. There are few men in Princeton as informed and concerned.

Dean and John deserve your vote.

for the score. A substitute linebacker just in the ball game had lined up wrong. The conversion attempt failed, and PDS still led 8-6.

Wardlaw got the ball back minutes later on a PDS fumble, and wasted no time taking the lead on a 27-yard pass play into the end zone with the receiver wide open.

With PDS going nowhere offensively, the second half was all Wardlaw, as it scored three more times, once on a 63-yard pass interception.

Mike Felder with 10 tackles and Dan Blum with 11 tackles led the Panther defense.

HUN VS. PEDDIE

Here Friday at 1. The scores have been reminiscent of Hun scores two years ago — only this time Hun is on the losing end.

Last week, the Hun School football team (1-4) was routed again, this time by Delbarton 50-6. There isn't much you can say after your team gets beaten like that, agreed Hun coach Dave Leete.

All he could say about the upcoming contest with Peddie, which will be played at the Hun Field Friday afternoon, starting at 1, is that "It will be another tough game."

After winning two straight, Peddie was blanked last week 42-0 by undefeated Lawrenceville School. The Falcons' record is now 2-3.

Laughlin Scores for Hun. When John Laughlin scored for Hun on a 10-yard run in the second period against visiting Delbarton, it made the score in Saturday's game 13-6. Hun then held Delbarton on the return kickoff for three plays only to have the visitors score on a long pass. "After that," said Leete, "we just died."

"Delbarton wasn't that good we just didn't play good football," he added.

To try to stem the onslaught by the opposition - Hun has been outscored 115 to 12 in the last three starts — Leete reported he plans no drastic changes other than to try to use more players just one way.

"We've got some who are going two ways and they're not doing the job," he said. "Hopefully, this way we'll get a little more experience and more effort out of what we've got."

HAC BOMBED

By Joe & Lena's, 55-30. Harrison Athletic Club got into the record books this past Sunday, but it's not a record to be proud of. HAC gave up the most points ever in the Mercer County flag football league, losing to Joe and Lena's, 55-30. The two teams also set a record for most points scored by two teams.

The half time score was 32-6, with HAC's only score coming on an end zone to end zone kick-off return by the fleet Greg Spady. In the second half HAC actually outscored the victors by a point, 24-23.

Dennis Reigle hit John Clagborn with scoring passes of 15 and 50 yards, and Evan Donaldson with a 50-yard aerial. Jerry Schemmer provided the final tally when he ran an intercepted pass back 50 yards.

Ivy Inn was not scheduled this week. In other games, Candlelite squeaked past Ewing Giants, 14-8, scoring the winning touchdown with 23 seconds left. JoJo's whipped Old Smugglers, 43-10, and Three Seasons beat Mott AC, 20-6.

HAC will play Candlelight, led by two HAC former players, Chester Wooten and Bill Hill, this Sunday at the Lawrence High Field. Ivy will swing back into action against Joe & Lena's at Princeton. Both games begin at 10:45.

RUG MART ROLLS ON

U-Store Wins, 6-0. Scoring seven times, undefeated Rug & Furniture Mart rocked Nassau-Conover, 44-0, and Princeton U-Store blanked Princeton Fuel Oil, 60, in games last week in the Princeton Midget Football League. Rug Mart is 3-0, U Store 2-1 while Fuel Oil and Nassau Conover are both 0-2-1.

Scott Thompson scored on the first play from scrimmage for the Rug Mart, going over from the three after his team had recovered a Nassau Conover fumble on the opening kickoff. Thompson scored twice more in the first half.

Others scores came on runs of 28 and 40 yards by Howie Brooks and on two and nine yard runs by Ronald Ward.

Luther McKellar ran hard for the losers but the Rug Mart defense was able to contain him throughout the day. Robert Willis broke loose for a 22 yard gain and might have gone all the way except for a saving tackle by Ron Ward of the Rug Mart. Rod Taylor played well on defense and recovered a fumble for Nassau Conover.

The U Store edged Fuel Oil on a 60-yard pass from Kim Beasley to Tony Opperman at the start of the fourth quarter. The play followed an interception of a Fuel Oil pass by Tony Lamar. Opperman had two pass thefts, one in the first and again in the final period.

PERTH AMBOY NEXT

For Sputtering PHS Eleven.

"It was a team effort in reverse," said a disappointed Dick Wood last week as he summed up the 21-7 loss the Princeton High School football team suffered against previously winless Bridgewater-Raritan West.

After driving 71 yards in 10 plays for a touchdown against the visiting Golden Falcons Saturday, the Little Tigers spent the rest of the day spattering aimlessly up and down the field. "I think every play after the first touchdown got worse," commented Wood. "There's no reason why we should not have been able to keep our offense going."

The Blue and White will try to climb back up to the .500 mark (it's now 2-3) Saturday morning when it plays host to Perth Amboy. Kickoff is 11 a.m.

Wood rated Perth Amboy as "a good club, but no better than Bridgewater-Raritan."

Perth Amboy has had so-so clubs since the departure of its premier quarterback, Brian Taylor, who deserted the gridiron to win honors on the Princeton University basketball court. In its last start, the upstate team dropped a 22-7 decision to Iselin.

Defeat Was Frustrating. The Bridgewater loss was frustrating because Wood said that he felt the two teams were on a par. "I don't think we should have been separated by 14 points from them as we were today," he said.

It has become obvious by now that PHS depends heavily on its passing game to keep its attack moving. It has no runner who poses a consistent break-away threat. As a consequence, unless the passing is effective, the offense breaks down.

Against Bridgewater, the passing just wasn't dangerous enough. Between them, Greg Kline and John Mooney threw more incompletions than completions and four interceptions — two by each one. That hurt.

PHS started off as if were going to send the Falcons reeling with their fifth straight defeat. On the first play from scrimmage, Tom Holgesang swept around end for 24 yards. Kline hit Holgesang two plays later for another first and then passed 23 yards to Rich Warfield, who carried to the visitors' 12.

Kline Scores for PHS. Four plays later on a fourth and four, Kline lugged the ball over on a keeper. When Ned "Automatic" Fry kicked the extra point, PHS had a 7-0 lead with less than four minutes gone. The offensive line of Dave Cowan, Tom Mason, Bob Drummond, Frank Boyer and Jeff Lewis was opening up sizeable holes.

The Falcons had been here before and looked dispirited. But then quarterback Bob Kolodinsky combined with his favorite receiver, John Reindel, and his two running backs, fleet Dave Hobbs and fullback Warren Snedeker, to drive 74 yards.

En route, Kolodinsky successfully passed three times, the last coming from six yards out on fourth down to Hobbs standing all alone deep in the end zone. Kolodinsky then passed to Reindel for the two-point conversion to put Bridgewater ahead to stay, 8-7.

Defensively, coach Jim Beachell tried a new PHS alignment that consisted of Steve Kopp at safety, Dane Black and Craig Carlton, halfbacks, and John Figueroa, Jack Bayer and Mike Diamond, linebackers. Richard Guzy, Wes McClain, Frank Caponi, Willie Alexander and Ron Campbell were on the line as Beachell tried to plug up the defense that had permitted 34 points in the Little Tigers' previous start, and 85 points this season.

Bridgewater got as far as the 22 in the second period but tackles by McClain, Dan Poling and a batted passed turned the ball over to PHS. At the half, the Falcons had the edge in rushing, 64 to 38 yrads.

CAMPBELL CARRYING FOR PHS: Ron Campbell lugs the ball for short yardage for Princeton High School in the second period against Bridgewater-Raritan Saturday. The visiting Golden Falcons did most of the gaining, however, as they defeated the Little Tigers, 21-7, for their first win of the season.

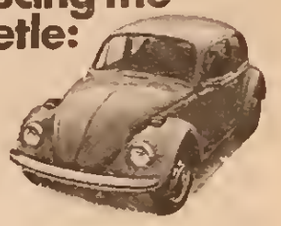
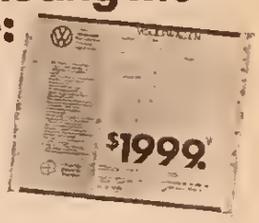
Introducing the 1973 Beetle:



Re-introducing the 1972 price:



With the price of our new Beetle still under $2,000,* the Volkswagen Beetle is a bigger buy than ever before.

More warranty, for instance, than you get with any other small car. Twice more: 24 months or 24,000 miles.

More attention to specific details than ever (and that's quite a lot). More than 1,000 inspectors meticulously scrutinizing more than 5,000 parts. Some two or three times. For us, it's not enough to get it right, we want it perfect.

Volkswagen also has the most advanced automotive service system in the world. A brand new computer is, or soon will be, waiting in our service area. We simply plug it in to your VW, and it checks, via sensors and probes, vital service parts and spells out the results in plain English. That's service.

Maybe all of this explains why VW owners have gotten more resale dollars after three or four years than the owners of any other comparable car.†

Obviously, it's not only the price of the '73 Beetle that reminds you of the good old days. It's also the quality.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

*1973 Volkswagen Sedan (ll) suggested retail price, P.O.E. Local taxes and other dealer charges, if any, additional.

(ll) on owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear and service items) will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge. See your dealer for details.

and in passing, 92 to 87.

Mooney entered the game in the second quarter. The southpaw quarterback for PHS completed three passes, all to Dane Black, and had two intercepted in eight attempts.

Put Game Away. The Falcons put the game out of reach with single scores in the third and fourth periods. Their second TD began on the PHS 32 where Ed Ortelli intercepted a Kline pass for his second theft of the game. Kolodinsky passed for a first down to the 17 and then on the next play ran to his side, cut back and went over standing up. The PAT kick was good.

With 5:53 remaining in the game, Ron Campbell was hit hard by Bridgewater on the 35. His fumble was scooped up by Clark Hudek who ran it in. The visitors, smelling the blood of their first win, were not to be denied. They kept the Little Tigers at bay, coming up with one more interception before time ran out.

"Our passing was poor," said Wood after the game, adding, "They covered us very well." Wood was nonplussed, though, because he reported the passing had gone very well in practice. "We had stressed no interceptions," he said.

"But in the game, everybody fell part. Nobody did the job."

TENNIS TITLES WON

In West Windsor, Dave Sifter, Katie Ruch and Kevin Little were crowned champions in their events in the annual West Windsor Recreation Department tennis tournament.

Sifter captured the men's singles title in the Yellow Division with a 6-3, 7-6 win over Bob Nielsen. Sifter had defeated Nick Rzewsky 6-4, 6-2 to reach the finals, while Nielsen had conquered Bob Duncan, 4-6, 9-7, 6-4.

Katie Ruch won from her sister, Mary Lou, to win the girls' singles. After losing the first set, 2-6, she rallied and took the next two, 6-2 and 6-3. To gain the finals, Mary Lou had overcome Pamela MacLeod, 6-1, 6-1.

Kevin Little defended his boys singles crown with a 6-1, 6-1 win over Mark McLean. Mark had advanced to the finals with a win over his doubles partner, John Bowker, 6-3, 6-4.

Thursday evening at 8 the new lighting facilities will be dedicated at the tennis courts when Mayor Firman will preside at the ceremonies. After the dedication, trophies for the tournaments will be awarded by Stan Nichols and Mrs. McLaughlin. At 8:30, Dave Taggart will hold a brief tennis clinic stressing serving and backhand. At 9:00 ,two top women's and two otp men's doubles teams from West Windsor will play two games to complete the evenings activities.

Winners of the Champion Flight were Mr and Mrs Kester Pierson, who defeated Mrs James Warga and her partner Jack Sweeney, in the final round, 1 up on the 19th green. The First Flight winners were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bordlemay, 3 and 2 over Mrs. Diana Dawes and her partner, Alan Poole.

The Women's Golf Association held its closing luncheon at the Present Day Club. The incumbent chairman, Mrs. Ralph Mather, announced her successor for the following year, Mrs. Kester Pierson. It was also announced that Mrs. Edgar J. Johnson will be chairman of the Women's Bridge Program, assisted by Mrs. Robert Cronin, vice-chairman.

Squash Clinic Thursday

A clinic to train referees in squash racquets will be held Thursday at 4:30 and 7:30 in Jadwin Gymnasium.

Two well-known national tournament referees from Philadelphia, E. Harmon Friel and Henry Rohner, will be present to teach area players the finer points of refereeing in preparation for the Men's National Squash Championships which will be held February 16-19 at Jadwin. More than 250 players are expected to compete.

Additional information about the clinic may be obtained by calling 924-3117.

STUDENTS ARE VICTORS

In Town-Gown Sailing. Four members of the Princeton University Sailing Club defeated a team of four skippers from the Carnegie Sailing Club Sunday in a town-gown Sunfish race on Lake Carnegie.

The students gave their elders a lesson in the subtleties of team racing. The town sailors exhibited flashes of individual brilliance but failed to work together as well as the students in the light and shifting winds.

In the regular fall series of races, Vaugn Worm won the 14-foot Sloop class. Hector Poventud came in second.

This Saturday, the Carnegie Sailing Club will host Sunfish sailors from the Mid Atlantic area in an all-day regatta with the first race starting at 10:15.

PDS WINS TWO MORE

In Soccer. Raising its record to 7-0-1, the Princeton Day soccer team won two more games last week, a 6-2 victory over Englewood School and a 4-0 shutout of highly regarded Newark Academy.

Spotting Englewood an early first period goal, the Panthers quickly struck back when left inside Dave Straut deflected a long free kick by fullback Mike Stix into the nets. Shortly, thereafter, Stix scored on a penalty kick and PDS was in front to stay.

A long shot from halfback Grayson Ferrante found the mark late in the first period to make it 3-1. In the second quarter PDS upped the margin to 5-1 on two tallies by American Field Service exchange student Feliciano Azevedo. Jeff Schuss and Alan Bogdonoff picked up assists.

In the third period, Jayvee players allowed no let-up in the PDS attack with Gary Salup booting it home after excellent passes by fullback Ted Thomas and left wing Ted Brown.

Newark Academy came into its game with PDS with a 7-1-1 mark, and unscored upon in 13 consecutive periods. PDS put an end to that streak with just four minutes gone in the first period, when Greg Bash scored on a pass from Art Levy.

Minutes later center half Cam Ferrante headed a ball in on a corner kick from Evan Bash. Insurance goals in the second half were scored by Straut on a pass from Levy and Azevedo on a pass from halfback John Bragg.

After a scheduled match with Solebury on Wednesday, October 25, PDS next plays Princeton High away on Tuesday.

VARIED FALL EXHIBITS

At Gallery 100, Watercolor painting is considered among the more difficult painting media. Because it must appear fresh, and because it dries rapidly, it must be applied both quickly and thoughtfully at the same moment. It is a fluid medium and should seem to flow freely, while the artist controls both the shape and the degree of transparency.

The difficulties of the medium have never served to inhibit the painters, both Sunday and daily, who love to express themselves in watercolor. Consequently we are continually exposed to overworked, cliche-ridden, calendar-type illustrations traveling under the name of watercolor paintings.

Well done watercolors, always a rarity, currently cover the walls of Gallery 100. Hiroko Yoshikawa has created a beautiful collection of paintings and has managed to make this very difficult medium appear easy.

Flowing line, transparent tones and freely-created shapes are combined with controlled form, delicate line and glowing color. Her lovely technique is demonstrated in a collection of landscape and floral paintings which often deal with familiar subjects while avoiding the cliche. Sunflowers, trees, farms and twilight villages are all developed with a sophisticated eye for spatial relationships and subtle color interaction.

Small collages also embody this artist's sense of color harmonies and spatial relationships. Small shapes, grouped together to create larger forms are combined with textural areas and make good use of white space. A few intaglio prints, delicately colored, are also included in this collection.

Handblown glass by Diane Wright George provides transparent color in another medium. More than ever, glass is being considered as a creative art form. The grouping at Gallery 100 displays some of the many directions in which the contemporary glassblower seeks new forms.

Rich blues, ambers and reds are used to create flowing, ribbon-like shapes that drape and curve forming transparent images within images. Small globe shaped flower forms are exhibited singly and in groups where the shapes can relate to one another and form light and shadow patterns.

At The Drawing Room, The World of Nature by 19th Century English and Continental Artists is a glimpse into a more tranquil artistic era when surroundings were slowly and richly viewed and the pictorial results were more carefully wrought.

Finely worked nature studies in many media reflect the atmosphere of a time of great refinement. Carefully detailed scientifically correct renderings of all manner of flora and fauna are charmingly colored in watercolor, pastel or gouache.

Botanicals, insect studies, jungle beasts, trees and other nature forms are shown in tiny, careful drawings, larger than life studies, and small paintings. Many are a combination of color work and either ink or pencil.

Although the work is quite formal, the manner and style does not inhibit the artistic effect created by color, style and pattern. Within the highly-structured setting, there is a joyous sense of nature, its excitement, color and richness of texture as well as a quiet expression of the tastes of a period long past.

At The Artisan, The current exhibit of prints by Margaret Kennard Johnson reflects this artist's continuing relationship with color and silhouette as major graphic elements. Mrs. Johnson has developed her own color effects. The tonal statement has become increasingly subtle and increasingly rich as she has been able to develop more profound relationships between the degree of transparence, and the inter-relationship between her color statement and the particular nature of the printing inks.

Mrs. Johnson works in simple shapes, carefully playing silhouette against silhouette, with smaller, richly textured forms and patterns contained within. Her sensitivity to the visual impact of one shape as it relates to others makes these simply designed pieces into elaborate and effective works.

The prints on display are all collographs. These are collections of material similar to collage, which are refined and developed into surfaces that may be used for printing. This has enabled the artist to draw upon the rich textural reserves around her and develop them into a personal and effective artistic expression.

Sandcasts by Mrs. Johnson are included in this exhibit. They reflect the same linear sensitivity and line relationship of basic forms always apparent in Mrs. Johnson's graphics.

At the University Art Museum, The sensitive and finely-wrought aspects of classical drawing can be seen in two concurrent displays at the Art Museum. Venetian drawings and Baroque prints and drawings reveal virtuoso displays of drawing technique and lovely views. Figure studies, landscape, the figure in landscape and religious subject matter are shown in ink, chalk, wash and various media combinations.

The works on display can be viewed superficially as a beautiful visual experience or studied carefully as an exploration of the many ways to create fine drawings. Line, tone and texture are all masterfully executed, both singly and in combination and can provide the observer with a good perspective of the elements that combine to create master drawings.

At the Present Day Club. Florals and large non-objective paintings by Naomi Policoff can be seen at the Present Day Club.

The large paintings done in an abstract expressionist manner are composed of floating forms connected by linear elements. Mrs. Policoff is most comfortable with works in limited color where much of the effect is created by muted tonal relationships.

PAINTINGS ON DISPLAY
At Present Day Club. Many of the exquisite Chinese watercolors of Artist Henry Wo Yue-kee, known internationally as "Poet in Paint", will be on display at the Present Day Club, 72 Stockton Street, from November 1 through November 21.

Mr. Wo Yue-kee, whose works are in permanent museum collections throughout this country, Hawaii and Taiwan, maintains the beauty of traditional Chinese brush work while revealing some Japanese and Western influence. His technique gradually blends the East and West creating an international art and maintaining a strong Oriental flavor.

Using soaking wet Japanese rice paper, Mr. Wo Yue-kee paints with free washes, delicate lines and a fine color sense. He does not paint directly from his subjects but after observing nature he returns to his studio and paints his recollection of his visual experiences. His paintings are often described by observers as "misty", "luminous", "serene" and "dreamy" in quality.

The public is invited to view the exhibition for the duration of the show on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays or Fridays from 9 until noon. For additional hours, it is suggested that an appointment be made by calling the Present Day Club, 921-1014.

KENT GRAPHICS SHOWN
At University Library. Selected items from the Princeton University Library's major collection of graphic works by American artist and writer Rockwell Kent are currently on display in the Harvey S. Firestone Library.

The exhibition of prints, drawings, textile designs, ceramics, illustrated books, bindings and typographic ornaments drawn from the Elmer Adler Collection of Rockwell Kent, will continue through the end of October in the Graphic Arts Collection on the second floor. It is open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 to until 5.

Curator Joseph Rothrock pointed out that the exhibit is designed to "bring out the dimensions of Kent's strong sense of man's relation ship to nature and his attempt to live independent life."

Active in numerous political movements, Kent's activities at one point brought him into conflict with the House Un-American Activities Committee and resulted in loss of his U.S. passport for a year in the early 1950's. Despite such problems, he did commissioned designs for the U.S. Post Office in Washington, D.C. and the dramatics for the Office of War Information.

Kent and Adler, who was the first curator of Graph-

Arts in the Princeton University Library (1940 until retirement in 1952), became friends in the 1920's when Adler headed Pynson Printers in New York City, a printing house specializing in fine-quality books.

The culmination of their working relationship was the Random House edition of Voltaire's "Candide," printed at Adler's press in 1928. Kent designed the book and illustrated it. Included in the current Princeton exhibit are a full set of proof pages with Adler's suggestions for design changes, correspondence concerning production of the book, drawings Kent made for illustrations, paper samples, initial letters, and the line cuts made from the drawings and used to print the book.

RIDER COLLEGE NIPPED

By Princeton Sharpshooters. "It was our first match and our first win," said a proud Township Lt. Richard V. Steiner, commenting on an unexpected victory.

Lt. Steiner is coach of the Princeton Junior Rifle Club comprised mostly of students from Princeton High School, which last week edged the Rider College ROTC in a match at the Citizens Rifle & Revolver Club on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. The score was 1126 to 1119.

High scorer for the Junior Rifle Club was Jack Seeley of Linden Lane, who led all shooters with a 243. In second place was his 16-year-old sister, Patricia, with a 225. Finishing among the top five were Don DeAngelis, a Peddie School student, 224; Scott Holtzclaw, a student at Hightstown High School, 219; and Kevin Mellan, 215. Only the top five figured in the scoring.

Lasting five and one half hours, the match was held in the Club's 50 foot indoor range. Each participant shot 10 times shooting in a prone, kneeling and standing position with a .22 caliber target rifle.

On November 9, the Junior Rifle Club will challenge the Princeton University varsity rifle team in a match at the same site. "Now I know we're in over our heads," said Lt. Steiner. "It's a lot of fun, though, and the kids love it."

SOPHOMORES WIN AGAIN

In PBS Football. The Princeton High School Sophomore football team remained undefeated last week with a 27-20 win over Steinert. The Little Tigers have now won three in a row after tying Hamilton, 6-6, in their opener.

Wingback Robert Wood scored twice, once on a 45-yard run and again on a 30-yard pass from quarterback Pete Watson. Speedy Randy Bullock tallied on a 50 yard sweep around end and Watson bucked over from the one to round out the Little Tiger scoring.

NIXON LEADS IN N.J.

Eagleton Poll Shows. Richard Nixon's strategy of putting together a coalition of traditional Republicans and disaffident Democrats seems to be working in New Jersey with some notable exceptions.

According to the Eagleton Institute's New Jersey Poll, a statewide sample of 1221 persons records that Nixon is preferred to McGovern by 54 percent to 31 percent with 15 percent undecided.

Although Nixon's support crosses most of the categories of voters polled, a notable exception was the much touted youth vote. Among 18-24 year olds, McGovern is preferred 48 percent to Nixon's 41 percent with 11 percent undecided.

Since the sample is slightly biased against student respondents who are expected to be solidly pro-McGovern, this breakdown is probably a conservative estimate of McGovern's youth support.

Nixon's chief campaign problem is reflected in the breakdown of political party preference in the poll. Democrats outnumber Republicans by 53 percent to 35 percent. Evidence of the success of Nixon's strategy to attract away Democrats can be found by looking at the breakdown of candidate support by political party preference.

Republican support for Nixon is very solid with only 3 percent of the Republicans voting for McGovern and 7 percent undecided, the rest going to Nixon. But Nixon has captured 30 percent of the avowed Democrats to McGovern's 53 percent while an unusually large 17 percent remain undecided.

McGovern's major difficulty seems to be the desertion of working class Democrats. While unskilled and skilled workers seem to be sticking to Nixon in 1972, they are not doing it out of love for Nixon's economic policies.

Asked how they feel Nixon is doing handling the economy, 65 percent of the unskilled workers and 58 percent of the skilled workers rated fair to poor.

When the sample is broken down by education it can be seen that McGovern's greatest support comes from respondents with education beyond high school.

McGovern is about even with Nixon among respondents in this group and substantially behind in other groups. This pattern is the opposite of the traditional distribution of support for Democratic candidates.

The Fourth New Jersey Poll was conducted by telephone from Eagleton Institute and surveyed 1221 randomly selected New Jersey residents over 18. The results were tabulated by the Opinion Research Corp of Princeton. The New Jersey Poll is supported by grants from the Wallace - Eljabar Foundation and the Eagleton Institute of Politics.

Democrats Ahead for Congress. Democratic candidates for Congress are preferred to their Republican opponents by a 44% to 29% margin according to another Institute Poll.

The results of the statewide survey of 1221 adults conducted between October 6 and 15, also show that over one quarter of the electorate — 27% — remains undecided.

According to John Blydenburgh, Director of Eagleton's N.J. Politics Center, the Democratic margin suggests that a large Nixon victory in New Jersey is not likely to be of great help to Republican candidates further down the ballot.

Nixon supporters show a great willingness to split tickets in contrast to McGovern supporters. Twenty six percent of Nixon supporters indicate that they support a Democratic congressional candidate while only 5% of McGovern's supporters prefer a Republican congressional candidate.

Among avowed party loyalists the trend is the same. Self identified Democrats are more solidly behind their congressional candidates than are self identified Republicans. Only 5% of Democrats in the poll said they intended to support a Republican candidate while 10% of the Republicans preferred a Democratic congressman.

The assumption that ticket splitting is more likely to occur among more highly educated American voters apparently is not true in New Jersey. A comparison of preference for McGovern to preference for Democratic congressional candidates shows that in New Jersey less educated respondents are more likely to split a ticket than more educated respondents.

The Democratic congressional candidate's strength is broad based. They lead their Republican challengers among all age, income, and occupation groups as well as among men and women, whites and non-whites.

These New Jersey Polls were conducted by telephone from Eagleton Institute and surveyed 1221 randomly selected New Jersey residents over 18. The results were tabulated by the Opinion Research Corp here. The New Jersey Poll is supported by grants from the Wallace-Eljabar Foundation and the Eagleton Institute of Politics.

PRINCETON GETS PAPERS

Of David Morse. A broad insight into the concerns and operation of the International Labor Organization during the post-World War II years is revealed in material being placed on deposit at the Princeton University Library by a former director-general of the I.L.O.

David A. Morse, at one time acting U.S. Secretary of Labor and Director General of the I.L.O. for 22 years until his resignation in May 1970, made a presentation of an initial selection of material to Universal by President Dr. William G. Bowen in the latter's Nassau Hall office.

Mr. Morse will continue to deposit items from his papers from time to time, according to University Librarian Dr. William S. Dix.

Among initial items are reports, personal correspondence, volumes relating to I.L.O. history, appointment books, and numerous reels of microfilm including meeting minutes, reports of I.L.O. missions and visits, and various studies.

Dr. Dix said, "David Morse was one of the most distinguished international civil servants during a period of great hope and great stress in the affairs of international organizations. His papers will enrich the collections of the Princeton University Library, already strong in international affairs through the papers of Adlai E. Stevenson, John Foster Dulles, David Lilienthal, and many others.

There are, for instance, 40 volumes of Mr. Morse's reports to the I.L.O. and Regional Conferences from 1949 until 1970; the first eight volumes of the Bulletin of the International Institute of Labor Studies; various bound volumes relating to the I.L.O., including books prepared on its 50th anniversary in 1969; letters from former President Dwight Eisenhower to Mr. Morse and others concerning the work of the I.L.O. while he was president.

Dealings With Vatican. Among other significant papers are those relating to Morse's relations with the Vatican with Pope Pius XII, Pope John XXIII and the present Pope Paul VI. These papers include exchanges of views on international social and economic developments and projects as well as comments on various encyclicals, particularly Mater Magistra. The other papers cover extensive discussions with Nikita Khrushchev, Tito, Nasser, Franco, De Gaulle, Golda Meir, Juan Peron and other political leaders.

Other material includes autographed photographs, newspaper clippings, the yearly appointment books from 1949 through 1970, and scrapbooks. Among the extensive microfilm material are correspondence, meeting minutes, details of I.L.O. relations with various countries, agencies and individuals, various studies and details involving the admission or withdrawal of various nations from the I.L.O.

Mr. Morse also has included to date, a selection of personal letters between him and his wife, a notebook kept while he was a captain in military service, and folders on material relating to his work with the Allied Military Government.

Son of an immigrant family, Mr. Morse was born in the Bronx. He worked his way through Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, through employment in the baking rooms of an asbestos factory, and found time, also, to play both football and lacrosse. Receiving his degree in 1929, he went on to Harvard Law School, graduating from there in 1932.

He also holds honorary degrees from Rutgers, the University of Geneva, the University of Strasbourg, Laval

Meet The American Party Replacement For George Wallace

CONGRESSMAN

JOHN G. SCHMITZ

For President

The American Party Believes—

1. Never go to war unless you intend to win.
2. Those who work ought to live better than those who will not.
3. Stop all aid to and trade with Communist Governments that supply arms to North Vietnam.
4. Against all gun control laws (when guns are outlawed only outlaws will have guns!)
5. No forced busing for any purpose.
6. Against abortion.
7. Remove earnings limitation of 62-years and over for people on Social Security.
8. Support the present anti-Communist governments of Greece and Rhodesia.
9. Freeze government spending—not wages and prices. Government creates inflation by deficit spending.
10. Most hard drugs in the U.S. originate in the poppy fields of Red China. We deplore President Nixon's failure to take any meaningful action to stop the flow of hard drugs from Red China to the U.S. and pledge our full support to stop this assault on our American youth.

The Schmitz-Anderson Ticket gives you a choice against two echoes. Break the blackout of silence in the Media on the American Party Candidates. Howard Freund is our candidate for U.S. Senator. When a party forces you to compromise your principles, it's time for a new party. We need workers and contributions. Ten-Store Marketplace to Open Here

Ten discount shops clustered under the title, "The Marketplace of Princeton" open their doors November 16 at the junction of Routes 27 and 518, Kendall Park.

Wares range from clothing, cookware and fabrics to party supplies and shoes for all the family. Well-known, respected brands are marked down as much as 50 percent, as the shops sell closeouts, overcuttings, cancellations and some seconds.

The Marketplace of Princeton is the second such center to be established by the brothers Bernard and Arthur Seeman. The Marketplace, An Unusual Concept, opened in 1970 just north of Matawan on Route 34. The Seemans, who lease the shops to various discounters discovered the cut-rate market seven years ago when they began a part-time store selling irregulars from manufacturers of men's fine quality clothes.

One of their early ventures, the Clothes Closet, is a full-time shop at the Montgomery Shopping Center. Another Clothes Closet is the key store at The Marketplace of Princeton, selling casual clothes for men, women and children.

A Wide Variety. Shops will include The Pottery Barn offering tableware, gourmet cookware and tableware; The Shoeiace with footwear for all ages, and Just Men, stocked with a broad assortment of shirts, ties, suits. The Bumble Bee has party supplies, cards and candies; Cogito sells ladies' junior size clothes.

Others are The Fashion Deck, Susan Greene, and the Everfast Fabric Mill, as well as a cooperative outlet for leather manufacturers, The Leather Warehouse, selling apparel and accessories. The latter is now open (see page xx.)

Bernard Seeman calls The Marketplace "the second greatest concept" in marketing. "The first greatest is Filene's basement," he says, adding wryly, "You know, we give directions on how to get to both Filene's and the Marketplace. Women come in here and weep when they find out they paid a few dollars more someplace else, so we ran an ad, "Please, no tears!"

He adds, "We're trying to do some really different things with The Marketplace. If people can save a buck, why not!"

The Marketplace of Princeton will be open from 10 to 6 every day except Sunday. On Thursdays and Fridays the shops stay open until 9:30 p.m.

LOWER NET EXPECTED

At Applied Research, Princeton Applied Research has announced its estimate of preliminary third quarter operating results based upon audited results for the seven months ended July 31 and preliminary estimates for the balance of the quarter.

For the two months ended September 30, preliminary indications are that the company operated at a break-even level on net sales of approximately $900,000. Net sales, net income and net income per share were $1,344,000, $79,000 and 9 cents respectively, for the three months ended September 3, 1971 as compared, based on preliminary estimates, to about $1,400,000 in net sales, about $50,000 in net income and approximately 5 cents in net income per share for the three months ended September 30, 1972. The information is unaudited and in the case of 1972 interim data, preliminary.

The company does not believe that its results of operations for any particular interim period are necessarily indicative of the results that will be achieved for the full year. It adds that its anticipated lower net income for the fiscal quarter ended September 30 arises primarily from PMS research and development expenditures relating to its high pressure extrusion work and operating losses of PAR's West German sales subsidiary formed in April 1972, operations not reflected in the comparable quarter of 1971, offset only in part by income contributed on sales by the Company's DISC formed in February 1972. PMS research and development expenditures aggregated approximately $60,000 in the fiscal quarter ended September 30, 1972 and are expected to continue at approximately the same level for the balance of the year.

University, and Brandeis.

Mr. Morse resigned his law practice shortly after Pearl Harbor to join the Army. He served as a Captain in North Africa, Sicily, and Italy, where he became the Chief of the Labor Division of the Allied Military Government. In this capacity he drafted and put into effect the labor policy and program in Sicily and Italy for the British and U.S. government.

Picked by Truman. In subsequent assignments he developed similar policies for Germany, France, Belgium, and the Netherlands for which he was promoted to Lt. Col. He was named General Counsel of the National Labor Relations Board in 1945 and the following year was picked by President Harry S. Truman as an Assistant Secretary of Labor. He was advanced to Under Secretary two years later and became Acting Secretary in 1948.

Service as Chief of the U.S. delegation to the International Labor Conference followed in 1948 (he had earlier served twice as an I.L.O. delegate), and at the 105th session of the governing body of that group in June 1948 he was named I.L.O. Director General. Morse was unanimously re-elected for new terms in 1957, 1962, and 1967.

Upon his resignation from that post two years ago, the tall, energetic former lawyer said the time was ripe to return to the U.S. from Geneva, the site of the I.L.O. He hoped, he said, to "continue to serve the public interest ... in the local, national, or international areas."

Mr. Morse was especially proud of he fact that when he was first thinking of resigning his I.L.O. post it was the African members who urged him to run for re-election.

"Urban problems, slums and ghettos" and rural poverty were the problems he had come to understand best during his 22 years as head of the labor organization, Morse said.

The labor agency has a membership of 123 nations and is tripartite in that employers' and workers' spokesmen join with government spokesmen in delegations and in shaping its program. Currently its staff of 2,700 concentrates on supplying technical training, setting labor standards, analyzing job problems, and helping the world's poorer states improve living and working conditions.

Mr. Morse, now 65, resides in Manhattan with his wife, Mildred.

He has been active in legal associations, educational circles, and with various other international programs. He is the recipient of awards from the Sidney Hillman Foundation in New York (for meritorious public service), from the International League for the Rights of Man (a human rights award), from UNESCO, and from the governments of Brazil, Gabon, Cameroun, Colombia, Peru, and Italy.

He is partner now in the law firm of Surrey, Karasik and Morse, of Washington, New York and Paris.

"COUNTDOWN TO '76"

History Lectures Set. A four-year program of lectures focusing on the nation's bicentennial has been announced this week by the Historical Society of Princeton.

The first lecture will be given by art historian E. P. Richardson at 8 p.m. Wednesday, November 1, in the Engineering Quadrangle lounge. The theme of the series this year is the men who shaped the thought and fabric of the young republic. Mr. Richardson will give an illustrated talk on "What Did Washington Look Like?"

The lectures, open to the public, are intended to foster a keener appreciation for the life of early Americans and of the principals for which they stood and fought. Each annual series will have a specific theme, giving the four year program a many faceted view.

Wednesday's speaker was editor of "The Quarterly Iron" 1938 to 1968 and is the author of numerous books ... "The Wyeths of Western Art," "American Romantic Painting," and "Painting in America the Story of 450 Years" among them. ALLEN'S FLOWERS

We used to be Hopewell's "PRETTY LITTLE" Flower Shop Now we're "PRETTY BIG."

Our renovation is complete. Yes, our Long Hot Summer is over and we've inhaled enough paint fumes and swallowed enough plaster dust to last a lifetime. But now the last lick of paint has been spread and the incessant racket of power saws and hammering have faded into memory. All is peaceful at Allen's — and that's as it should be.

We are very proud of our new shop. It's twice as big, and we've added some sparkling new lines and services of course, but essentially we've created a pleasant place to browse, a quiet place where you can walk in beauty quite apart from the common place nuttiness that surrounds us all today.

Flowers are very much a part of what is left in life today that is real and beautiful. Flowers offer you something else too. Something you rarely find anymore — innocence.

PRINCESS TOWN COLONIAL

Coming into Prince town there's a meandering brook that flows into Lake Carnegie near the dock and the sailboat races. This lovely cedar clapboard colonial is just a short distance up the brook on a splendidly large wooded lot. From its slate foyer to its rustic beamed family room, our home offers the best of modern colonial living. The beauty of early American 12 over 12 windows downstairs is matched by the elegance of picture windows in most of the upstairs bedrooms. A screened-in porch off the family room, a summer eat-in deck off the kitchen, and a laundry area on the ground floor are just a few of the extra special features that she will notice. Make her a princess in her own time and turn the town upside down. $87,500

CUSTOM RANCHER

This handsome custom built rancher is situated on a convenient in-town lot in historic Rocky Hill just a few minutes north of Princeton. The living room with raised hearth fireplace, convenient dining area and custom designed eat-in kitchen offers limitless possibilities for use as living space. The sleeping quarters of three bedrooms and two full baths are excellently planned for young and old. Add to all of this a full basement (63' long), central air-conditioning, low maintenance aluminum siding, a two car garage and a convenient formal flagstone patio, and you have a very attractive offering of $47,900.

ALMOST IN PRINCETON

If you're tired of commuting and not living somewhere special, come live a little over a mile away from Princeton University in the Penns Neck area. This three bedroom brick and cedar shake ranch with fireplace in the living room and your own master bedroom suite will make a lot of sense when you see it. There's plenty of closet space and an eat-in kitchen that's big enough to use as a family room for the younger children. Go to the football games and dine out or window shop in historic Princeton.

"It is possible to picture the active life of the Old Farm over a long period. It was a place frequented by a long list of travellers, some of whom must have been important figures in early American life. It was the solemn meeting place of the Court and the scene of many a local merriment. It was also a place of good cheer. In the early days of now, the Old Farm was was a landmark to every veteran traveller." From The History of the Old Farm — Tavern Days

From it's beginnings as a part of a tract owned by Governor Daniel Coxe from 1687 to 1690 through its days as the "plantation of the Phillips family [1691-1853] and a "licensed house of public entertainment" [one of the first on Ye King's Highway] to the handsome Greek Revival structure that is the Old Farm today, it has had a delightful history and a house of beauty and warmth. Superb front door with center hall with original colonial wood floors, cherry staircase balustrade, one walk-in fireplace and beautifully mantled on the other four 12 foot ceilings, original window glass, random floor boards exposed in many rooms, the rare among the early houses of the Province. The Farm, which has 7 bedrooms and 4½ baths, sits on over 11 wooded acres [with pasture] complete with sheep [or not included in the sale] and a wide oak and a variety of other trees, is highlighted by a garage or old barn [wood] barn. A first offering for the most discriminating of homes in the "Old Farm" area. Offered at $285,000.
